The 2014 accomplishments of the Andrew Young School of Policy Studies are detailed in the pages that follow. Here are some highlights.

In 2014:

262 scholarly papers, chapters and books were published or forthcoming.

Faculty and research associates published 77 research articles joint with other AYSPS researchers, graduate students and alumni.

Faculty and research associates edited or co-edited 28 journals, served on advisory and editorial boards for 50 journals, and refereed for 400 different journals.

Faculty and research associates made 240 presentations at U.S. and international conferences, including 48 presentations at universities.

Faculty and research associates worked with international agencies and as lecturers and advisors to 24 countries, from Australia to Ghana to Nepal.

The School offers 20 different scholarships to benefit our students.

The AYSPS endowment is more than $12.7 million.

Active sponsored grants for AYSPS departments and centers totaled $32,566,388.
About the Andrew Young School of Policy Studies
ABOUT THE ANDREW YOUNG SCHOOL OF POLICY STUDIES

Graduates of the Andrew Young School make important and unique contributions to their communities and the world. Informed by the school’s entrepreneurial approach to scholarship and research, they are well-prepared to plan, manage and evaluate the work of governments, nonprofits and businesses on the local, national and global levels.

Ranked among the top 10 percent of Best Public Affairs Schools in U.S. News & World Report’s national evaluation of public affairs graduate schools, the Andrew Young School ranks No. 4 in public finance and budgeting, No. 12 in city management/urban policy, No. 12 in nonprofit management, No. 24 in public policy analysis, and No. 26 in public management administration. The School of Social Work ranks No. 52 overall, the highest-ranked social work school without a doctoral degree program.

Our students are enrolled in one of 18 degree programs offered in four academic departments: Criminal Justice and Criminology, Economics, Public Management and Policy, and the School of Social Work. Advanced degrees are offered in each of these areas, including Ph.D. programs in Criminal Justice and Criminology, Economics and Public Policy.

Our ten active research centers foster excellence in the design, implementation and evaluation of policy. In CY2013 our research projects were funded by more than $29 million in active sponsored grants and yielded more than 375 scholarly articles, chapters and books. Faculty, and often students, take a multidisciplinary approach to this work.

More than 2,200 students enroll each semester, creating a diverse and talented group of individuals who are highly sought after as graduates. From Decatur, Georgia, to Yogyakarta, Indonesia, graduates of the Andrew Young School of Policy Studies at Georgia State University are changing the world.
DEPARTMENT OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE AND CRIMINOLOGY

Studies that measure research productivity consistently rate our criminal justice and criminology faculty and programs among the best. Our widely acclaimed faculty continue to shape the knowledge of crime and justice, using their research and experiences to provide our students deeper understanding of criminal justice and criminology issues.

Faculty members tie together research, theory and policy in the courses they teach, providing students a well-rounded education that sets them apart from other criminal justice graduates. A mandatory internship program enables students to integrate their understanding of theory with practice. The department also publishes two highly regarded scholarly journals, Criminal Justice Review and International Criminal Justice Review.

Graduates of the Andrew Young School are well prepared for careers in criminal justice and criminology. Many choose to further their education in top graduate programs and law schools.

DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMICS

The emphasis on policy distinguishes economics instruction at the Andrew Young School. Faculty specialize in public economics, environmental and labor economics, urban and regional economics, and experimental methods, with growing emphasis on the empirical evaluation of public policies and programs.

The latest Southern Economic Journal analysis of the scholarly productivity of economics faculty ranked the Andrew Young School 11th in the fields of public economics, No. 8 in urban and regional economics, No. 14 in general economics and teaching, No. 16 in methodology and history of economic thought, no. 20 in environmental economics, and No. 23 in labor demographic economics.

Graduates of our economics programs are highly sought after. Many are making significant contributions in government, academia and public sector careers.
DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC MANAGEMENT AND POLICY

A culture of knowledge and inquiry advanced by empirical research infuses this department. Our graduates are highly qualified for professional and managerial careers and leadership positions in a wide variety of public, nonprofit and private agencies.

Students inspired by the ideal of community service graduate ready to lead with new knowledge and practices that improve governments and society. Specialties are city management and urban policy, public finance, public and nonprofit management, and public policy analysis. Popular areas of research include transportation, education, health policy, emergency preparedness and relief, and planning and economic development.

Internships and job placements have led Andrew Young School graduates to responsible positions at all levels of government, nonprofit agencies and the private sector. Our graduates work to make the world a better place.

SCHOOL OF SOCIAL WORK

Excellence and distinctiveness in teaching and learning, research and scholarship, and service and outreach are earmarks of our successful social work program. Our graduates excel in careers that build healthy communities, maximize human potential and promote social and economic justice.

Faculty members have developed deep research expertise in social work contexts and practice areas such as child welfare, restorative justice, housing and income issues, aging, community organizing and practice, mental health and addictions, HIV/AIDS, and health disparities. They work towards social solutions in collaboration with community partners and students, combining classroom and experiential learning.

Undergraduates earn an accredited B.S.W. degree from the largest undergraduate social work program in Georgia. Our accredited M.S.W. program, with its unique concentration in community partnerships, prepares students for social work leadership roles.
This center developed out of the School of Social Work’s need for an organizational structure that extended the school’s founding principles beyond the classroom and into the community.

Its mission is to contribute to building and sustaining healthy communities through the utilization of community strengths and resources in the development and application of interventions, program strategies, policy analysis, community-based research and evaluation, the education and training of a multifaceted human services workforce, and the facilitation of community partnerships.

Elizabeth Beck is Director of the Center for Collaborative Social Work.

Created in March 2014, the Center for State and Local Finance (CSLF) builds a stronger bridge between the Andrew Young School’s nationally ranked Public Management and Policy faculty, other scholars in public finance, and the broader community of public finance practitioners at the state and local level. The CSLF has a broad mission of research, training, and technical assistance to develop the people and ideas for next generation public finance. Key initiatives include:

- Developing executive education programs in public finance to provide professional development for the next generation of practitioners in state and local finance,
- Building technical assistance capacity in next generation technologies for the public sector that include the use of “big data” and improved analytics to better inform policymakers and to better target solutions to public sector problems,
- Supporting scholarship on critical challenges in state and local fiscal and economic policy,
- Building a strong capacity to translate and communicate academic research for the practitioner audience.

The Center for State and Local Finance (CSLF) is a “spin-off” from the highly regarded Andrew Young School Fiscal Research Center (FRC). The FRC will continue to be a rich repository of information, data, and expertise about Georgia state and local tax policy and state and local tax research will continue to be shared between the two Centers. In addition the CSLF will also focus on the topic areas of education finance, budget and fiscal policy, and urban policy and economic development.

Carolyn Bourdeaux is Director of the Center for State and Local Finance.
DOMESTIC PROGRAMS

Domestic Programs encompasses several important research and outreach programs of the Andrew Young School. Its multiple research units pursue activities that better inform the debate on public policy. Research focuses on issues that impact the citizens of local, state and national governments and agencies.

The many research and outreach programs in Domestic Programs offer student internship opportunities and the chance to learn from experts in academics and governance in symposia. Activities are funded by organizations such as the National Science Foundation, private national and local foundations and businesses, and state and federal agencies.

Sally Wallace is Director of Domestic Programs.

EVIDENCE-BASED POLICY WORKSHOP

“Evidence-based policy,” the use of experimental and statistical evidence to improve the effectiveness of public policies and programs, represents a growing focus of governments, nonprofits, and the academic community. The Andrew Young School of Policy Studies has a substantial and unique talent base in this area, as indicated by its Number 18 ranking in the field of “policy analysis” in the U.S. News and World Report’s respected rankings of more than 250 Public Affairs programs. We have experts in quantitative impact analyses using experimental and non-experimental designs, and we have experts in the development of public performance management systems who have close relationships with decision makers. Both are essential for identifying the “what” and the “how” of policy design and implementation.

As part of the Second-Century Initiative, Georgia State University created the Workshop on Evidence-Based policy within the Andrew Young School of Policy Studies to create a focal point for research and outreach to promote policy-oriented research that will support policymaking based on high-quality evidence. Three senior scholars, Tim Sass and Michael Price in Economics and William Pridemore in Criminal Justice/Criminology, were hired as part of the Second Century Initiative in order to enhance the Andrew Young School’s existing base of scholars and serve as a core leadership team for the new Workshop.

As a hub of energy and activity, the Workshop will bring together faculty and center researchers to catalyze interdisciplinary inquiry in evidence-based policy. By providing leadership, high-profile colloquia and lecture series, and an institutional umbrella for research working groups and visiting faculty and graduate students, the Workshop will serve as a catalyst for increasing the engagement and raising the international profile of the Andrew Young School and Georgia State in solving society’s most pressing problems.

Michael Price, William Pridemore, and Tim Sass direct the Evidence-Based Policy Workshop.
EXPERIMENTAL ECONOMICS CENTER

The Experimental Economics Center (ExCEN) supports research, teaching and policy applications involving controlled experiments to promote the development and application of economics and related academic disciplines as empirical science.

Ongoing research in ExCEN involves the development of economic theory supported by data and of new experimental methods to support policy applications.

ExCEN's research and teaching support facilities include the experimental economics laboratory and EconPort (http://econport.org), an economics digital library and virtual laboratory used by researchers and teachers worldwide. External funding is provided by the National Science Foundation and the National Institutes of Health, while core support comes from the Georgia Research Alliance and the state government.

James Cox is Director of the Experimental Economics Center.

FISCAL RESEARCH CENTER

The Fiscal Research Center (FRC) is the focal point for the study of state and local fiscal issues. Research staff and affiliated faculty conduct research and provide technical assistance on the important array of fiscal issues facing state and local governments in Georgia and the United States.

Georgia's state and local government agencies and elected officials turn to the FRC as the principal provider of policy analysis in areas that include national, state and local tax policy, fiscal analysis, federal tax impacts on states, education finance, government budgeting, intergovernmental fiscal relations, state economic development policy, and state and local economic conditions. The FRC also houses Georgia's state fiscal economist, who is charged with developing revenue forecasts and analysis of legislation.

In 2014, the Fiscal Research Center spun off the Center for State and Local Finance (CSLF). The FRC proper continues to focus on Georgia state and local tax policy while the CSLF has a broader mission of research, training, and technical assistance focused on “next generation public finance.” State and local tax research continues to be shared between the two Centers, while the CSLF also focuses on the topic areas of education finance, budget and fiscal policy, and urban policy and economic development.

Sally Wallace is Director of the Fiscal Research Center.

GEORGIA INTERNATIONAL LAW ENFORCEMENT EXCHANGE

The award-winning Georgia International Law Enforcement Exchange (GILEE) is a joint project of Georgia State University and local, state, federal and international law enforcement and public safety agencies.

Working in cooperation with the corporate sector and civic groups to better deal with threats to public safety and improve security, GILEE enhances law enforcement executive development with peer-to-peer on-site professional training and international cooperation.

GILEE’s professional training exchanges of law enforcement leaders advances their knowledge of valuable security tactics in areas that include emergency management, homeland security, violent crime, special events, and the myriad of issues concerning urban and rural policing.

Robert R. Friedmann is the founder and Director of GILEE, ILEE, and several other initiatives that emphasize active involvement in a multitude of university-community partnerships.

Georgia Health Policy Center

The Georgia Health Policy Center (GHPC) connects decision makers with the information and guidance needed to make informed choices about health policy. Celebrating more than 16 years, the GHPC is at work nationwide looking for and finding solutions to some of the most complex issues facing health care today, including long-term care, children’s health, health care reform and the development of rural and urban health systems.

The center’s core functions – evaluation, technical assistance, strategic planning, meeting design and facilitation, policy analysis and grants management – are used in a wide variety of projects locally, statewide and nationally.

Karen J. Minyard is Director of the Georgia Health Policy Center.

International Center for Public Policy

This International Center for Public Policy (ICePP) supports sound government policy and sustainable economic growth in the world’s developing and transitional economies by promoting the expert design, implementation and evaluation of public policies. Faculty and researchers conduct internationally oriented research and training programs and provide technical assistance to fiscal decision makers from around the globe.

ICePP trains public finance professionals who take the skills they learn back to their local and national governments. Our faculty members are recognized worldwide for their work in public economics. Their contributions have positioned the Andrew Young School as a critical capacity builder in many important emerging countries.

Jorge Martinez-Vazquez is Director of the International Center for Public Policy.

Nonprofit Studies Program

The Andrew Young School’s Nonprofit Studies Program shows how the basic principles of policy analysis, economics and management apply to the nonprofit sector. Its strong emphasis on teaching nonprofit management and leadership in this context gives the program an advantage in training future nonprofit managers and directors.

The Nonprofit Studies Program collaborates with Atlanta’s nonprofit and philanthropic leaders on research and sector development. It promotes policy research relevant in today’s economic and political environments, and links the scholars and nonprofit practitioners who are developing and disseminating knowledge about this sector.

PUBLIC PERFORMANCE AND MANAGEMENT GROUP

The Public Performance and Management Group (PPM) seeks to energize the pursuit of performance in public organizations. Core activities include research and analysis, training, evaluation and the dissemination of information on best practices.

This group works with governments to solve policy and management problems and conducts research that focuses on providing solutions. Its home base, Atlanta, is a state capital and an important urban center, and PPM makes the most of this exciting location. PPM’s projects tend to focus on state government, city issues and projects that produce local impacts.

Greg Streib is Director of the Public Performance and Management Group.

State and Community Service

Outreach is an essential part of the mission of the Andrew Young School. Faculty, research associates and graduate students were heavily involved in Georgia and in the Atlanta region, in all manner of ways. We developed and implemented training programs, carried out applied research projects, spoke at public and private meetings, worked directly with government officials in evaluation of policy options, and served on boards of non-profit agencies. We tried to help make better policy in our state and believe we have added value in many areas. The following listing shows the very great breadth of our state and community service.

Community members and legislators celebrated the passing of Georgia Senate and House Resolutions supporting Israel. On Tuesday, March 11, friends of Israel gathered in Georgia Senate Chambers to celebrate the passing of legislation supporting the State of Israel. The text of SR 741, Senator John Albers’ Resolution, was read on the Senate floor and presented to attendees during the celebration organized by Chuck Berk, Chairman, Israel Bonds - Atlanta. The legislation expresses “strong support and a steadfast commitment to the security, welfare, and survival of the Jewish State of Israel with secure borders and recognizes its right to act in self-defence to protect its citizens against acts of terrorism.” Dr. Friedmann was invited by Chairman Berk to stand at the podium as he acknowledged GILEE’s role in Georgia-Israel law enforcement cooperation and how valuable it is to the State of Georgia and to Israel. Then the text of Representative Harry Geisinger’s resolution HR 1459 was read on the House floor.

Advancement
Advancement

Boards of Advisors

The Board of Advisors is an important part of the Andrew Young School. Members provide ideas and suggestions, serve as a sounding board of our ideas, and represent us in the community.

AYSPS Board of Advisors

Our board is a non-governing advisory board, with a strong focus on the advancement of the School and helping the AYSPS achieve its mission by providing resources, assistance and advice. The Board meets quarterly.

We ask each board member to find an area of particular interest in the School, such as one of our centers, programs or departments. We want them to learn about that program in some depth, get involved with what the program does, and then help us find intellectual and practitioner support as well as core funding for that program. This is a long-term activity—it takes time to develop programs and to raise funds. Board members provide critical perspective, and their advice and leadership are very important to us.

The Andrew Young School of Policy Studies’ public relations program promotes a favorable environment for student and faculty recruitment, private giving and public funding by raising awareness of the college and its accomplishments among essential constituencies. Our public relations efforts use planned and purposeful communication ideas, strategies and tactics. Avani Raval and Jennifer Giarratano coordinate public relations, publications and events.

Highlights

The AYSPS audience includes potential and current students, alumni and their families; faculty and research associates; peer faculty and researchers; and government, nonprofit and business leaders in the local, state, regional, national and global arenas; the media; interested stakeholders; and decision makers at national and international development agencies such as USAID, The World Bank, and major foundations, as well as the leaders of foreign governments with whom the AYSPS works.

The Andrew Young School mission—to “inform the debate” on local, state, national and global policy—hinges on its research being widely known. AYSPS public relations efforts strive to reach its many audiences via media relations, event management publications, social media and other related efforts.

Media Relations

Andrew Young School research and faculty experts were cited or quoted in nearly 350 times in 2013, including media hits in newspapers, online news sources, blogs, radio shows and television news. In addition, AYSPS faculty members published articles and opinion columns for newspapers, blogs and popular media. Locally, faculty were quoted, or their research was cited in local and regional news vehicles such as The Atlanta Journal-Constitution, Atlanta Business Chronicle, Augusta Chronicle, Creative Loafing, Georgia Public Broadcasting, WABE-FM Public Radio, WSB-TV, The Saporta Report, and WXIA-TV 11-Alive News. Faculty were also sought for their expertise in national news stories featured in the Wall Street Journal, Forbes, Inside Higher Ed, Nature, Bloomberg Business Week, CNBC, National Public Radio, Associated Press, the Washington Post, USA Today, the Huffington Post and The New York Times. International newspapers and websites that quoted AYSPS faculty experts included Le Figaro. See the Media Hits section for a list of media hits from 2013.

The AYSPS PR team works collaboratively with Georgia State University’s Department of Public Relations and Marketing Communications to write and distribute news and social media describing the school’s research, programs and events and proactively pitching experts who can discuss newsworthy topics. Reporters from local and national media outlets who contact Georgia State seeking commentary for their news stories are matched by the AYSPS with faculty members who have the appropriate expertise. Many of the school’s professors are frequently sought for interviews on a wide variety of subjects. Media hits in The Atlanta Journal-Constitution and other news sources are tracked, and many are distributed to the School via the Dean’s weekly e-News publication.

Publications

The Briefing. A key component of the school’s visibility efforts is The Briefing, the Andrew Young School’s magazine that showcases the school’s research, teaching and outreach. The Briefing is distributed three times a year to more than 17,000 primary constituents, largely alumni and friends, and is featured on the School website. Feedback is impressive regarding the content and presentation of the magazine, as well as the sheer magnitude of activity that the School consistently achieves. Jennifer Giarratano edits The Briefing, bringing clarity to the issues and setting stories in context with what is happening in the world. The publication's annual highlight is the Research Issue.

Annual Report. Each year the School conducts a thorough accounting of what its faculty and research staff have accomplished, producing an annual report. The report is available as a pdf online, and announcements of the annual report's availability are sent to alumni and friends of the school. Bonnie Naugle continues to coordinate this effort.

Academic Brochures. Academic brochures are available for each of the Andrew Young School programs. Members of the AYSPS departments distribute flyers to undergraduates as a way to encourage majoring in current and new AYSPS programs.

Website. The Andrew Young School uses Drupal as its content management system, ensuring an easily managed website. It is continually updated and upgraded to offer a wide array of current information about the School. Pages are maintained for AYSPS faculty and research associates, including contact information, vitae, and photos. Story ideas, news releases, and the online experts guide provide assistance for the news media. An active calendar site and informational intranet area prove useful for faculty and staff. Information on academic programs, courses and syllabi are popular with current and prospective students, as well as those that advise them. The Vault Online Research Portal features a collection of AYSPS and Center working papers and publications.

Dean’s E-News. The Dean’s E-News serves as a weekly vehicle for sharing achievements within the School and for identifying news to be distributed to external audiences. Publications Specialist Marcia Jones Cross produces the newsletter, which is archived on the AYSPS website.

Georgia State Magazine and The E-Newsletter from President Becker. The Georgia State PR and Marketing Communications office promotes the Andrew Young School along with other colleges on campus through its publications, including GSU Magazine, a 40-page glossy magazine published quarterly for alumni, donors, legislators and the university community (circulation: 110,000), and the E-Newsletter from President Becker, the university's official online news distributed monthly to all Georgia State University employees.

Advertising. The Andrew Young School advertises its programs in relevant publications, both internal and external. PowerPoint templates with the AYSPS identity are offered to researchers; publications are in adherence to the University’s identity guide. Georgia State University’s professional photographers are often used. The School’s Social Science Research Network (SSRN) working paper series is widely distributed through SSRN networks, eLibrary, and electronic journals. The research centers produce a wide array of publications, including working paper series, fiscal research notes, child policy brochures, and conference brochures.

Journals. The Andrew Young School is home to three scholarly journals, Criminal Justice Review, the International Criminal Justice Review, and Nonprofit Policy Forum. These journals are advancing the mission of the Andrew Young School, and providing valuable commentary and research on issues important to both local and global communities.
EVENTS

The Andrew Young School is a vibrant place, with a busy calendar of events. Each of the academic departments and centers within the School has a wide array of research and outreach initiatives, with a corresponding variety of events. The Dean’s office coordinates events within the college to ensure minimum overlap and maximum attendance per event. Avani Raval oversees scheduling of rooms, coordination with University photographers and audio/video production crews, catering, and event promotion for AYSPS events.

Honors Day. Honors Day is an annual, special day in the life of the college. Exemplary students are recognized in a formal reception, dinner and awards ceremony. See the “Student Awards, Honors and Scholarships” section of this report for further information.

Coordination between the AYSPS and other units on campus via bi-weekly College Communicators meetings, to review events underway as well as major publications and media initiatives, was hosted by the university’s PR and Marketing Communications office. AYSPS also works in conjunction with such offices as the Office of Development, routinely providing materials and assisting these offices in their work for the AYSPS, and working groups such as the College Webmasters Group.

Academic Department and Research Center Seminar Series. The academic departments and research centers of the Andrew Young School keep their calendars full of activities that benefit both the School and the broader AYSPS audience.

Journalists from dozens of local, regional, national and international publications and broadcast outlets call on the Andrew Young School of Policy Studies’ faculty experts each week for information and commentary on breaking news stories and features. In 2014, Andrew Young School researchers and their work were featured in articles, blog posts, radio and television segments, and more. The college encourages its faculty—as employees of a taxpayer-funded research university—to make themselves and their work available to the public through these news outlets. The list below represents a sampling of the year’s major media hits.

Carolyn Bourdeaux: TV, WSB-TV Channel 2 Action News, Atlanta, Georgia, United States, Interview on Cobb County finance issues, 8/21/14.

Dean Dabney: Radio, GPB, Atlanta, Georgia, United States, Radio interview on Atlanta serial murder case, 12/3/14; Newspaper, AJC, Atlanta, Georgia, United States, Interviewed for a story on police-community relations in the wake of the Ferguson, MO police shooting, 11/25/14.

William Pridemore: The Andrew Young School and GSU promoted via a press release on his article published in Journal of Health and Social Behavior in June 2014. The article received widespread media attention in outlets like Newsweek and PBS NewsHour; a piece for the “Academic Minute” for Northeast

Research Support offers assistance and support to faculty and students in their research needs, helping both in literature searches and finding data.

Located on the Vault Floor of the AYSPS building, the Research Vault provides research services to both students and faculty. In the past year, over 600 publications were circulated to faculty and graduate research assistants, with many recent journals and reports kept for reference.

The Research Vault collects, catalogs, and makes available relevant literature and electronic resources for curriculum and research projects. Staff worked with college faculty and students to help identify and access ever-changing information databases that would suit their research. The unit provided access to websites, journals and data sets in such areas as public finance, economics, nonprofit studies, domestic and international policy studies, with an emphasis on taxation and revenue issues.

Hank Thomassen Collection

The Research Vault maintains the Hank Thomassen Collection, which includes titles in economics, philosophy, and policy. The collection was given to the Andrew Young School by the family of Georgia Economist Dr. Hank Thomassen, as a memorial to the long-serving economist to the governor’s office.

Library Resources

The Research Vault maintains an online catalog of resources, listing subscriptions, government documents, books, CDs and data sets available for use by AYSPS researchers. The catalog is accessible through the Andrew Young School website, with journal holdings and data sets listed. In 2013, many new titles, data CDs, and print annuals were added.

Andrew Young School of Policy Studies - Author’s Shelf

The Research Vault collects and displays books written or edited by our faculty and staff. Titles are available for check out in the library and are also on display on the 7th floor. In 2014, many new titles were added.

University Outreach

Research Vault staff coordinated with the GSU Library’s subject librarian, La Loria Konata, in orienting new faculty and graduate students to the relevant literature in policy studies, economics, public administration, criminal justice and social work. The GSU Library has research guides written and posted online for topics in these areas. La Loria Konata visits on-site regularly to assist faculty and students with their research needs.
