The 2009 accomplishments of the Andrew Young School of Policy Studies are detailed in the pages that follow. Here are some highlights.

214 scholarly papers, chapters and books were published or forthcoming.

Joint research of our faculty or research associates accounted for 34% of the papers.

Faculty and research associates edited or co-edited 15 journals, served on advisory boards for 32 journals,
and refereed for 131 different journals.

Faculty and research associates made 181 presentations at U.S. conferences and 66 international presentations, a total of 247 presentations.

Faculty and research associates worked with international agencies and as lecturers and advisors to 38 countries, from China to Egypt to South Africa.

Our graduate students have published 29 scholarly papers and have another 12 under review.
They presented 31 papers at professional conferences.

The Andrew Young School awarded 200 degrees.

Researchers and reports from the Andrew Young School were featured in 151 stories in various media outlets.

The AYSPS endowment is over $8 million.

Active sponsored grants for AYS departments and centers were $37,723,514.

Academic Programs
and Student Activities
The AYS Office of Academic Assistance (OAA) assumes a variety of responsibilities and roles, but the most important is as a hub for communication with both current and prospective students and alumni. The School’s relatively small student body enables us to have much more personal contact in our advising role than the larger colleges at the university. Sometimes we serve as enforcers of university and school regulations; sometimes we serve as counselors; but we consistently serve as advocates for our students. Shelly-Ann Williams is the Director of OAA, Wanda Cooley is Associate Director, and Mathieu Arp is Administrative Specialist.

Our Mission

The Office of Academic Assistance (OAA) supports the school’s commitment to quality education in the field of policy studies by promoting our programs to prospective undergraduate and graduate applicants, by facilitating the application process, and by admitting well-qualified students to the graduate programs. Academic advisement is required of all students in the Andrew Young School; our system of advisement integrates the OAA with faculty advisors to ensure students will be able to learn the requirements and policies of the university, college and department as they relate to their educational experiences and goals. Additionally, the advisement process is designed to help our students identify and utilize university and school resources effectively to: satisfy degree requirements; plan programs of study, including selection of appropriate courses and registration; discover how their interests, skills and goals connect to fields of study, internships and careers; and formulate appropriate questions, seek information, and evaluate and apply academic advice.

Changes to the Degree Programs

- The Master of Public Policy (MPP) with concentrations in Disaster Policy, Nonprofit Policy, Planning and Economic Development, and Public Finance Policy was initiated and enrolled the first group of students in Fall 2009.
- The Master of Science in Urban Policy Studies degree was phased out in Fall 2009.
- The Georgia State Doctor of Philosophy in Public Policy (stand-alone program) was initiated.

Graduation

- The OAA assisted 197 students in completing degree requirements and graduating.
- The OAA assisted 14 doctoral students in completing their dissertation requirements.

Admission and Enrollment

The Andrew Young School taught students in over 326 course sections during 2009. Student demand is increasing for our degree programs and majors, and we are maximizing student enrollment in AYS course offerings in economics and public management and policy. The School has experienced a 12.5% increase in credit hours from 2008 to 2009.
OAA ACTIVITIES, PROJECTS AND EVENTS

In 2009, The OAA:

- The OAA hosted, with the departments of Economics and Modern and Classical Languages, the annual IEML Open House to welcome new and continuing International Economics and Modern Language students.
- The office hosted the Idealist Graduate Degree Fair for the Public Good at Georgia State.
- The OAA coordinated, with the Dean’s Office, the 13th Annual AYS Honors Day ceremony to recognize academic and significant achievements of AYS students and graduates.
- The OAA coordinated, along with AYS students, campus events sponsored by our chartered student groups: the Economics Club, the PMAP Community Network, and the Graduate Student Association (see Student Groups) and assisted in chartering a new AYS group, the Georgia State Chapter of American Humanics, to enhance the Nonprofit Studies Program (see Student Groups).
- The OAA coordinated, along with faculty advisors, the nomination of outstanding students to the Omicron Delta Epsilon and Pi Alpha Alpha honor societies (see Student Groups).
- The office participated in Functional Users Support Group interviews evaluating the implementation of BANNER and CAPP at Georgia State University.
- The OAA coordinated AYS course scheduling with the academic units.
- The OAA managed the editing, maintenance and updating of AYS graduate and undergraduate catalogs, online admission, program evaluation and degree audit forms.

Each year, OAA staff members participate in university-sponsored events for prospective and current students. Highlights of the past year included participation in:

- The African American Student Services Fall Welcome Carnival
- The Athletics Department orientations
- The Athletics Department football recruiting sessions and kickoff dinner
- AYS departments of Economics and Public Management & Policy orientations
- AYS new faculty orientation
- Career Services Career and Internship Fair
- Career Services Information Sessions and Career Jam
- College Days at Georgia State University
- GSU Admissions new advisor training
- GSU Honors Program Honors Night recruitment receptions
- INCEPT new student orientation sessions
- Inceptor student leader training
- International Services new student orientations
- The Mega-One-Stop-Shop
- Panther Preview
- The Study Abroad Fair
- The Undecided Majors Fair
- Undergraduate Admissions new advisor training
- Welcome Week Mini-College Day
The OAA also participated in various colleges’ advising and career fairs to recruit top transfer and new students to AYS undergraduate and graduate programs. These colleges included:

- Atlanta University Center Consortium
- Emory University Graduate School Fair
- Georgia Southern University
- University of West Georgia
- Kennesaw State University
- Idealist.org Graduate Recruitment Fair
- Mercer University
- University of Georgia

Undergraduate Admissions

The Andrew Young School experienced a 16.7% increase in the number of students who applied, and a 9.8% increase in the number of students accepted.

Graduate Admissions

The total number of applicants to our graduate programs increased in 2009, as well as the number of applicants who were accepted. Our “show rate” also increased from 2008 to 2009. We processed 695 applications, accepted 374 students, and had 192 attend in 2009. We continue our efforts to increase our applications and enrollments by refining our marketing plan, maintaining direct contact with our applicant pool and increasing our use of technology to better meet the needs of prospective students. With the addition of two new graduate degrees, the Master of Public Policy and the stand-alone Ph.D. in Public Policy, we expect the applicant pool to continue to increase.

The Andrew Young School continues to have a diverse student population in terms of ethnicity and gender. The demographics of graduate students enrolled are shown below.

International Students

The Andrew Young School increasingly attracts top international scholars from countries around the world. This year, we were hosts to scholars sponsored by the Edmund S. Muskie program, the International Research and Exchanges Board (IREX), as well as Institute of International Education Fulbright Scholars from Bangladesh, Burma (Myanmar), Indonesia, Pakistan, the Philippines, and Saint Vincent/Grenadines. Students from over 63 countries currently attend our nationally ranked programs.
Chartered Student Organizations

The School’s chartered organizations, advised by the OAA, provide opportunities for students interested in economics and public policy to meet other students, faculty, and alumni; share ideas to enhance their knowledge and experience; become involved in the campus and community; and develop social and professional networks. Some of their activities during the past year are highlighted below.

American Humanics (AH) (Melanie Wofford, president; Maggie Tolan, faculty advisor) is a national organization that provides education, career development, networking and mentoring for future nonprofit leaders. AYS is pleased to sponsor the Georgia State Student Chapter of American Humanics, chartered this year. Activities included: a new organization meeting; a Roundtable about Nonprofit Internships with panelists from Next Generation Leaders and True Colors Theater Company; a mixer with the National Organization of Fundraising Professionals; and a Brainstorming on Fundraising session with the Nonprofit Research Center.

Economics Department Graduate Student Association (GSA) (Mennah Bizuneh, president; Kurt Schneir, faculty advisor) promotes scholarship and networking among economics graduate students, faculty and research associates in AYS, and a spirit of cooperation and fellowship among graduate students in the college. This year’s activities included: a new student orientation; co-hosting Economics Open House; Job Packet for the Job Search forum; Economics Games night; Meet the Dean coffee; Dissertation Skills workshop; and co-sponsoring the AYS faculty and graduate student picnic.

Public Management and Policy (PMAP) Community Network (Marciais Frazier, president; Maggie Tolan, faculty advisor) provides networking opportunities for graduate and undergraduate students in public policy, public management and urban studies to encourage their involvement on campus and in the community and to facilitate communication between students, faculty and alumni. Each year the Network maintains an e-mail list announcing events of interest and helps organize the PMAP department’s annual open house to kick off fall semester. Other activities included a lecture series featuring Myles Smith of Civic League (on Regional Planning); Christopher Parker of the Georgia Health Policy Center, leading a Health Policy Forum; Lisa Cremin of Metro Atlanta Arts Fund, Terrine Briggs of Collective Renaissance Guild and Chris Appleton of Wonder Root (on Arts for Social Change); policy t-shirt fundraising project; co-sponsoring the AYS faculty and graduate student picnic; and an ongoing Community Gardens project.

Economics Club (Bridget Hogan, president; Paul Kagundu, faculty advisor) aims to promote knowledge of economics on campus through its activities and provide a forum where students with similar interests can meet. Membership is open to all students interested in economics, regardless of their major. This year’s activities included: new student meeting and officers election; co-hosting International Economics and Modern Languages Open House; student forum on Your Degree After Graduation; field trip to the Federal Reserve; co-sponsoring (with Phi Chi Theta) a lecture on Economic Risk Analysis by Glen Harrison of the Center for Economic Analysis of Risk; and volunteering with Clark Howard Habitat for Humanity Build.

Omicron Delta Epsilon National Honor Society (Paul Ferraro, faculty advisor) has a Georgia State chapter sponsored by the AYS. Selection is based on academic merit and achievement in the field of economics. Each year, outstanding economics majors in the B.A., B.S. and B.A.-IEML and B.B.A., degree programs are nominated for the honor society.
Pi Alpha Alpha (William Waugh, faculty advisor) is the national honor society for the field of public affairs and public administration. The society's purpose is to encourage and recognize outstanding scholarship and accomplishment, to promote the advancement of quality in the education and practice of the art and science of public affairs and administration, and to foster integrity, professionalism and effective performance in the conduct of government and related public service activities. Membership identifies graduate students with the highest performance levels in academic programs preparing them for public service careers.
AYS students typically are involved not only in their own education, but also in many campus and community activities. Often, they take a leadership role. A small sampling of some of their activities and achievements is included below.

Sarah Arnason (M.P.A.) has been a volunteer on projects in Nicaragua, Argentina and Mexico, and continues to volunteer as an ESL instructor for the Latin American Association here in Atlanta. Recently, she was awarded a graduate fellowship from CARE, a humanitarian organization fighting global poverty.

Sarah Arnett (Ph.D. in Public Policy) worked on the Homeland Security and Justice Team during her internship with the Government Accountability Office’s Washington, DC, Headquarters.

Isaac Boring (B.S. in Economics), past president of the Economics Club, received a Student Achievement Award from The Wall Street Journal for his campus leadership and academic accomplishments in the field of Economics.

Tiffany Carlyle and Ludmia Lamothe (B.S. in Public Policy students) and Robert Holbrook (M.P.A.) were AYS senators in Georgia State’s Student Government Association this year.

Oscar Clark (B.A. in IEML), an Honors Program student, was recognized as an outstanding athlete by USA Cycling and received the Joshua Kuck Memorial Scholarship, based on outstanding achievement in the areas of cycling safety, advocacy and education.

Jacqueline Crowther (B.S. in Public Policy) was chosen as Amnesty International’s student area coordinator for Georgia, serving as liaison between Amnesty’s regional office and campus groups in metro-Atlanta. She also established a campus chapter of Oxfam America, an international humanitarian aid and relief organization.

Matthew Davichik (B.A. in Economics) was selected from among 35,000 applicants for Teach for America, and has started his teaching job in Houston, Texas.

Horacio Diego Rivera used a dataset of more than 100 countries to research Poverty and Institutional Quality in a Cross-Section of Countries with Dr. Paul Kagundu while completing a 2009 AYS Summer Policy Internship. The empirical results indicated that good institutions have a positive impact on poverty levels.

Denvil Duncan (Ph.D. in Economics) and Steven Buttrick (M.A. in Economics) worked with Dr. Klara Peter on an international tax database project: World Tax Indicators: A New Data Portal for Research in Tax Policy, now an ongoing project of the International Studies Program.

James Dutton (B.A. in Economics) was lead delegate on Georgia State’s award-winning Model United Nations Team. He also continued his service in the Student Government Association as vice president for Student Life.

Charles Evans, Marciais Frazier, Susan Manikowski, Jacqueline Payne and Maurice Stewart, members of the PMAP Community Network student organization, painted a mural at the Study Hall of Peoplestown, an after-school site. They worked with Latesia Coleman, a local artist and activist, on the project.

Caroline Farley (Ph.D. in Public Policy) was a volunteer representative for Childspring International, where she helped raise over $2,000 for children in Haiti.

Dorethia Garland (B.A. in Economics), as part of her job of development manager for The Integral Group, counseled clients on the effects of economic stress and the skills of planning for the future.

Manuel Dias da Graca (B.A. in IEML) volunteered for Hands of Love, an organization that serves orphans and women in Uganda through educational programs. Manuel currently works for Delta in the International Sales support department. After graduation he hopes to join the Department of State specializing in economic development.

Michael Halicki (M.P.A.), who works as a public affairs consultant to nonprofit and government clients on environmental and sustainability issues, completed a research project with Nobel Laureate Dr. Marilyn Brown at Georgia Tech.

Shelby Hall (B.S. in Public Policy) retired from Southern Company in April 2009 and reentered Georgia State to study public policy and human resources policy.

Merlin Hanauer (Ph.D. in Economics) and Sarah Jacobson (Ph.D. in Economics) were recognized by the AYS and their department for excellent teaching, as reported by students who completed their classes in principles of economics. Lauren Edwards (Ph.D. in Public Policy) and Jason Edwards (Ph.D. in Public Policy) were also recognized for excellence in teaching undergraduate policy classes.

Robert Hay (M.P.A.), who is Chief Financial Officer for the Care and Counseling Center of Georgia, was recognized by the Atlanta Business Chronicle as a finalist in their CFO of the Year Award for the nonprofit sector.

Jake Hersko (M.P.A.) served on the Board of Directors of the PMAP Community Network and the Atlanta Track Club.

Bridget Hogan (B.A. in Economics) and Jiffar Abakoyas (B.S. in Economics), 2009 Economics Club officers, moderated a campus Economics forum The Economy: Recovery? that was rebroadcast in WRAS radio.

Aaron Howard (M.P.A.) completed an internship at the U.S. Embassy in the Dominican Republic last summer. Upon return, he was a mentor for the GSU Study Abroad program and a panelist at the Study Abroad Fair. He also volunteers for Hosea Feed the Hungry, the Tanner Hospital in Villa Rica, and the Good Samaritan Group, which sponsors international children to attend school and receive daily meals.

Sarah Jacobson (Ph.D. in Economics), vice president of the AYS Graduate Student Association, was a volunteer at WABE, National Public Radio, and MedShare, a charity that distributes surplus medical supplies to hospitals in developing countries.

Kamilah Jones (M.P.A.) chose the concentration in Criminal Justice to focus on policies affecting juvenile offenders and at-risk adolescents. She is a tutor and mentor for students in Gwinnett County through the No Child Left Behind initiative. She also interned at DeKalb County Juvenile Probation Department and was a grant writer intern at the East Lake Foundation, a community organization developing enrichment programs for students.

Samphors Khieu (Ph.D. in Public Policy) completed an internship at the United Nations Headquarters in New York, working for the Development Cooperation Policy branch of the Department of Economic and Social Affairs.
Benjamin Landis (B.A. in Economics) spent last summer and will spend this summer in Northern Iraq participating in an internship with the Preemptive Love Coalition. PLC seeks to assist the over 4,000 Iraqi children who are awaiting life-saving surgery and to promote peace. PLC does this through several initiatives, including Buy Shoes Save Lives (BSSL), a program that supports local Kurdish Klash (traditional Kurdish shoe) makers and raises money for the children's surgeries by purchasing Klash and selling them online for an additional price.

Patrick Larson (M.P.A.) acted as an unofficial AYS ambassador while completing an internship at the U.S. Embassy in London. He also worked as a research assistant in the PMAP department, meeting prospective students and developing an internship and resources database for current policy students.

Kristina Lugo and Marcais Frazier (B.S. Public Policy students) and Caroline Farley (Ph.D. in Public Policy) were named as “Next Generation Nonprofit Leaders” by the American Humanics national organization.

Susan Manikowski (M.S. in Urban Studies), winner of the Georgia State Torch of Peace Award for campus and community leadership, was enrolled in the Peace Corps Master’s International program while completing her graduate degree. Upon graduation in Fall 2009, she was accepted into the Peace Corps and is now serving in Albania.

Mari McCoy (B.S. in Public Policy) was Georgia Minimum Wage intern at the National Association for Working Women. In that role, she analyzed the gap between what low-income workers earn and what it takes to live (the “self-sufficiency standard”) in all metropolitan Atlanta counties, and met with state and federal elected officials to obtain their support to increase the minimum wage.

Jonathan Miller (M.P.A.) appeared on CNN Newsroom with Ali Velshi where he sat on a student panel to discuss government. His internship was in the office of Governor Sonny Perdue.

Serita Moss (B.S. in Public Policy) formerly worked in housing and community development on programs to assist minorities in un-banked communities. She returned to school this year to study in the nonprofit concentration. She helped organize Helping Hands Outreach Ministry and Educational Service, a nonprofit to provide educational services to youth and the elderly on the subject of financial literacy.

Elija Owuor (M.P.A.) volunteered with Youth Connections, mentoring children whose parents are incarcerated.

Christopher Pozzi (B.A. in IEML) was a volunteer for the Atlanta Urban Debate League, coaching high school debate teams. His team will participate in the upcoming regional competition at the University of Georgia.

Danee’ta Shine (B.S. in Economics), a McNair Scholar, presented her research about stereotypes, “Do Essence Magazine’s Articles Help to Dispel or Validate Negative Stereotypes of Black Women?” at the Leadership Alliance National Symposium in Chantilly, Virginia, and will also present at Georgia State’s Undergraduate Research Conference. She works as a freelance writer and founded a group called B.O.L.D. to encourage and empower young women.

Michelle Sloan (M.A. in Economics) served as Critical Thinking through Writing consultant for the Economics Department’s CTW courses.

Allison Renyi (B.S. in Public Policy) served as a student justice in the Student Government Association and was a volunteer for MoveOn.org where she worked to inform people on voting and policy. Her interests also include health care policy, and she volunteers for the Red Cross and the American Diabetes Association.

Craig Rhee (B.A. in Economics) won the Best Use of Mobile Technology award at the 2009 Campus Movie Fest and has continued his film career after graduation; his new film, Outrage, has been released and will soon premiere at LeFont Theater in Atlanta.

Vince Rogers (B.A. in IEML and Economics) completed the nonprofit leadership training program, United Way V.I.P. He was then invited to serve on the Board of Advisors of Campaign for Atlanta 2009. Along with Dr. Greg Streib, he organized a screening of Campaign for Atlanta Mayoral candidate forum videos at Cinefest that were also broadcast on GSTV.

Christa Wren (B.S. in Public Policy) completed an internship at the Public Performance and Management Group (PPM) working on various projects for the State of Georgia. Given the nature of PPM, interns are usually graduate students, but a few outstanding undergraduates are selected. As a result, Christa selected public management and governance as her policy concentration.

Philip Wu (B.S. in Public Policy) continued his work with the Pittsburgh Neighborhood revitalization project, supervising the renovation of 14 abandoned houses and placement of seniors and families into housing; additionally he organized volunteers for several community cleanup campaigns, the Fulton County Court Watch, and developed partnerships with many metro Atlanta nonprofits.

Twelve AYS students were in the Athletics program this year. Public policy majors William Goldston and Kevin Lott and economics major Mi’Kyel Nero were on the basketball team; the baseball team included economics majors Chaz Abein, William Campbell, Ryan Fleming, Charles Moore and Carter Sackett; Vineece Verdun (B.S. in Public Policy) played volleyball; Joseph Castaldo (B.S. in Public Policy) and Julian Eberhardt (B.A. in IEML) played soccer; and Max Garcia (B.S. in Public Policy) was one of the first members of the new Georgia State Football team.

The Young Raiders, AYS’s intramural softball team, won the 2009 IM Softball championship. Economics graduate students Andy Balthrop, Gustavo Canavire-Bacarreza, Merlin Hanauer, Zack Hawley, Will Holmes and Kelly Wilkin played on the team.

Honors Day

The Andrew Young School of Policy Studies held its Thirteenth Annual Honors Day Ceremony on April 21, 2009, in the Georgia State University Student Center Ballroom, to recognize the academic excellence and service achievements of its students. Nearly 300 honorees and their guests attended the event, which was coordinated by the Office of Academic Assistance.

The following students were recognized this year:

Andrew Young School of Policy Studies Awards

Abdul-Akeem Sadiq and Solomon T. Tesfu received the Carolyn McClain Young Leadership Fund Award. This award was established to provide training opportunities for government officials, junior executives in national finance ministries, and young people who may be the leaders of tomorrow in countries with emerging economies, especially in Africa and the Caribbean.

Sarah B. Arnett, Spencer T. Brien, Lewis H. Faulk, and Stephanie A. Suazo are continuing fellows from 2008-2009 for The Andrew Young Fellowship. Established in honor of Ambassador Andrew Young through the generosity of many supporters, this fellowship is awarded annually to an outstanding student or students pursuing a Ph.D. in Economics or Public Policy. Each fellowship provides support for a period of three years of doctoral study.

Lorenzo N. Almada, Jonathan R. Boyd, Cristina M. Calzada, and Richard S. Kolenda are the 2009 Andrew Young School of Policy Studies Dean’s Fellowship recipients; continuing fellows from 2008-2009 are Ashley Custard, Kelley M. Dean, Lauren M. Edwards, Nicholas L.B. Harvey, and Zackary B. Hawley. Established through the generosity of the Coca-Cola Foundation in honor of Ambassador Andrew Young, the Dean’s Fellowship is awarded annually to an outstanding student or students pursuing a Ph.D. in Economics or Public Policy. Each fellowship provides support for a period of three years of doctoral study.

Department of Public Management and Policy Awards

Thomas S. Caiafa (undergraduate award) and Mary Clark Grinsfelder (graduate award) were the recipients of the William R. Gable Award. Given in honor of the dean of the College of Urban Life from 1973 to 1975, this award is presented to an undergraduate student and a graduate student majoring in urban policy studies who have demonstrated high academic standing and professional promise.

Alexandra K. Hicks (undergraduate award) and Ashley E. Mitchell (graduate award) received the Governor Joe Frank Harris Award. This award is given annually in honor of former Governor Joe Frank Harris, whose administration was noted for improvements in education, and who serves as a Distinguished Executive Fellow in the Andrew Young School, to a Georgia resident student or students in the school based on academic merit.

David W. Jones received the Rick Anderson Scholarship. This award was established by Mr. Rick Anderson, a B.S. and M.P.A. alumnus, who was associated with the City of Atlanta for 25 years, including serving as budget director under the administration of Mayor Andrew Young. It is given annually to an outstanding student who is also an employee of a local municipality or county government. within the area covered by the Atlanta Regional Commission.

Mary Clark Grinsfelder received the Amanda G. Hyatt Fellowship. Established in honor of the late Amanda Hyatt and her legacy of commitment to public service and education, this award recognizes a graduate student in policy studies who has demonstrated leadership and a proven commitment to compassionate public service.

Tara V. Squitiro received the Dan Sweat Award. Established to honor the late Dan E. Sweat, a Georgia State alumnus and long time Atlanta civic leader, this assistantship is awarded annually to one or more deserving graduate students with career interests in public service.

Michael R. Baumrind received the Best Term Paper Award. This award is presented annually to a graduate student or students in the Public Management and Policy program selected by a faculty committee after reviews of term papers submitted by students or recommended by professors. The topic of Mr. Baumrind’s paper was “Who is Least Aware of the HPV, Cervical Cancer Connection?”

Michael R. Baumrind received the Master of Public Administration/Juris Doctor Academic Achievement Award. This award is presented to the student who has the highest grade point average for the academic year in the joint M.P.A./J.D. program.

Matthew S. Markham, Travis F. Wright and Christina C. Zais received the Public Administration Academic Achievement Award. This award is presented to the student or students who have the highest grade point average for the academic year in the Master of Public Administration program.

Monica A. Atsu (undergraduate award) and Jung-In Soh (graduate award) received the Outstanding Intern Award. This award recognizes a student or students who, in the judgment of the faculty, have performed exceptionally well as an intern. Ms. Atsu was employed by the Georgia Family Connection Partnership, supporting the Kids Count initiative to track the well being of children in Georgia. Ms. Soh worked as a fundraising and development intern for the Starlight Children’s Foundation.

Jack F. Strickland received The PPM Outstanding Graduate Assistant Award. This award is sponsored by the Public Performance and Management Group (PPM) to annually recognize a graduate assistant who demonstrates leadership through initiative, professionalism, and a commitment to PPM’s public service activities.

Marcais L. Frazier (undergraduate award) and Tara V. Squitiro (graduate award) received The Public Management and Policy Student Leadership Award. This annual award is given to a student or students who exhibit exemplary leadership within the Department of Public Management and Policy (PMAP). Factors taken into consideration for selection include involvement in student organizations and other student initiatives that benefit the PMAP department, attendance at PMAP career and professional research events, as well as acting as an Andrew Young School/PMAP ambassador to the greater Atlanta community.

Juan L. Gomez received the Outstanding Doctoral Student in Public Policy Award. This award is given by the faculty to the joint Ph.D. in Public Policy student or students who best exemplify academic excellence and an ongoing commitment to scholarship in the field of public policy.

Amanda L. Wilsker received the Andrew Young School of Policy Studies Excellence in Teaching Policy Award. The Andrew Young School values excellence in teaching just as it does excellence in research. This award recognizes a student who, in the judgment of the faculty, has performed exceptionally well in the classroom.
Department of Economics Awards

R. Brian Yeomans received the Economics Award. This award is presented to the undergraduate student(s) who achieve the highest grade point average in economics courses above the 2000 level.

Tracy D. Davis received the Wall Street Journal Student Achievement Award. This award is presented to the outstanding graduating senior majoring in economics, selected by a committee of the faculty in the department.

Harish Yeluri received the Excellence in Microeconomics Award. This award is given by the faculty to the best economics major in Intermediate Microeconomics during the previous calendar year. The student earning this award has shown a deep interest in the subject, demonstrated a thorough understanding of the material and its applications, and attained a high level of academic achievement in the course.

Marietou H. Ouayogode received the Master of Arts in Economics Award. This award is given annually in recognition of outstanding academic achievement to the student or students with the highest grade point average in the Master of Arts in Economics program.

Omer F. Baris and Kelly R. Wilkin received the Harold Ball Economics Award. Established by Dr. Harold Ball, a Ph.D. in Economics alumnus, this award is given annually to recognize distinguished performance in quantitative economics by a graduate student.

John V. Winters received the Jack Blicksilver Scholarship in Economics. Established in honor of Dr. Jack Blicksilver, late professor of economics emeritus, this scholarship is awarded annually to a graduate or undergraduate student who excels in economics.

Denvil R. Duncan received the E.D. (Jack) Dunn Fellowship. Established to honor the late Banking Commissioner E.D. Dunn, a Georgia State alumnus, this fellowship is awarded annually to a deserving graduate student in the Andrew Young School with academic and research interest in public finance; financial regulatory policy impact on national, regional and local economics; or public management.

Michael D. Blakeney received the Carole Keels Scholarship in Economics. Established in honor of the late Carole Y. Keels, a Georgia State alumna, this scholarship recognizes a student with significant career experience who is pursuing a degree in economics. At the age of 38, Dr. Keels returned to college to complete both a master's and Ph.D. degree in economics at Georgia State.

Zackary B. Hawley received the George Malanos Scholarship in Economics. This award is given in honor of Dr. George Malanos, late professor of economics and first chair of the department, to the Ph.D. student selected by the faculty as best exemplifying a commitment to the exchange of ideas and the creation of a community of scholars.

Resul Cesur received the Theodore C. Boyden Excellence in Teaching Economics Award. This award is given in honor of Dr. Theodore Boyden, late professor of economics who retired from Georgia State in 1983. The award recognizes the graduate student in economics who best displays excellence in teaching economics, in terms of the improvement of economic understanding, primarily in the Economics 2105 and 2106 courses.

B. Andrew Chupp received the AYSPS Excellence in Teaching Economics Award. The Andrew Young School values excellence in teaching just as it does excellence in research. This award recognizes a student who, in the judgment of the faculty, has performed exceptionally well in the classroom.
OTHER AWARDS AND HONORS

Raymond P. Mensah received The CARE Fellowship. This award is a one-year graduate student internship program with CARE, a leading humanitarian organization fighting global poverty. Fellows will gain practical experience in various aspects of International Development and Global Health to prepare them for careers working with various international aid organizations, financial institutions, governments, and other organizations.

Hunter S. Kellett and Kristin N. Youngquist received The Legislative Budget Fellowship. This award, in partnership with the Georgia Senate Budget and Evaluation Office (SBEO), combines a paid internship opportunity with a graduate assistantship through the Department of Public Management and Policy. The fellowship is awarded annually to a deserving student or students.

Tanya H. Smilley and Joseph A. Zidron were recognized as Presidential Management Fellowship finalists. The Presidential Management Fellows program is a prestigious federal government career opportunity established to attract to federal service outstanding individuals with a commitment to excellence in leadership and management of public policies and programs.

Jasmine A. McGinnis received the Southern Regional Education Board State Doctoral Scholarship. The Southern Regional Education Board (SREB) is a nonprofit, nonpartisan organization that works with leaders and policy-makers in 16 member states to improve education. The SREB Doctoral Scholars program is funded through a partnership between the Southern Regional Education Board, the State of Georgia, and Georgia State University, and provides support for a period of up to five years of doctoral study.

Glenwood Ross and Nicholas L.B. Harvey received the Torch of Peace Award. This award honors individuals who have demonstrated outstanding leadership and have made a significant contribution to Georgia State University and the Atlanta community. This year, Dr. Ross was selected in the alumni category and Mr. Harvey in the graduate student category.

Liat Bashary, Leonidas Oyaga, Jacqueline R. Payne, Michael L. Pfauth, Sommer A. Smith, and Jason S. Stoltz received the Dean’s Key Award. The Dean’s Key is awarded for outstanding academic achievement and a commitment to academic excellence at Georgia State University, determined by either a 4.0 grade point average for 30 hours in residence, a 3.8 for 60 hours, a 3.65 for 90 hours, or a 3.5 grade point average for 120 hours in residence.

Research Centers and Programs
Department of Economics

Department of Economics faculty members are very active in the Centers and Programs of the Andrew Young School of Policy Studies. In addition to the entries in those sections and to publications listed in “Papers, Books and Chapters: Published or Forthcoming,” various other projects of economics department faculty are listed below. Academic programs are described in the Office of Academic Assistance section. Mary Beth Walker was Chair of the Department of Economics.

Programs

Graduate Teaching Assistant (GTA) Training Program. This program was created to help GTAs in Economics perform well in the classroom at Georgia State and in their future careers. Each year the program consists of a seminar in University Teaching, videotaping of class lectures and mentoring, and class visits by a committee member to evaluate the performance of the GTA. The responses from GTAs who participate in the program are positive. The program has also helped improve the Economics Department’s undergraduate Principles classes. The GTA Undergraduate Teaching Committee for 2009-2010 consists of Jon Mansfield (Chair), Shelby Frost, and Bess Blyler.

Faculty Recruitment. The Department welcomed an excellent new faculty member and two visiting assistant professors in 2009. Rusty Tchernis, Associate Professor, earned his doctorate from Brown University. He is also a Faculty Research Fellow at the National Bureau of Economic Research (NBER). His primary areas of research are Applied Econometrics, Health Economics, and Labor Economics. His work has been published in variety of journals including Journal of the American Statistical Association, Journal of Econometrics, Journal of Business and Economics Statistics, and Journal of Human Resources. His research has been funded by various organizations, including the National Institutes of Health and the United States Department of Agriculture. Antonio Saravia, Visiting Assistant Professor, earned his doctorate from Arizona State University. His primary areas of research are Political Economy, Institutional Economics, and Development Economics. His research has appeared in Constitutional Political Economy and various working paper series. Prior to becoming a faculty member at Georgia State University, he was an Assistant Professor of Economics at American University of Sharjah and an Instructor of Economics at Arizona State University, where he won several teaching and research awards. Resul Cesur, Visiting Assistant Professor of Economics, received his doctorate in economics from Georgia State University in August 2009. His research interests are in the fields of Health Economics, Labor Economics, Applied Econometrics and related aggregate level studies.

Summer Intern Program. The Department continued its Research Experiences for Undergraduates summer intern program, under the supervision of Jim Marton and with funding from the National Science Foundation. The program’s short-term objective is to provide undergraduate students with the opportunity to actively participate in policy research; the program is also intended to achieve the longer-term objective of attracting qualified, interested students, especially minority and women students, to quality Ph.D. programs in economics, public policy, and other social science disciplines. Students work closely with a faculty mentor on a research project of their own choosing. Interns receive formal and systematic training in a weekly seminar that provides basic research skills, and the program culminates in a presentation and a paper related to the research experience. Student evaluations of the experience include “My mentor did not see my time here as simply an extra research assistant for his use. Instead he was interested in helping however possible to arrive at what is hopefully a publishable paper. Overall, his concern for my progress as a student made the experience a very good one,” and “I really enjoyed the exposure to the diverse fields of economics that this program provides.”

Ten students from around the country attended the seven-week program, which ran from May 27 to July 14, 2009. Interns were from Stephen F. Austin State University, Centre College, Syracuse University, Georgia College & State University, Bard College, University of Akron, University of Arizona, Georgia State University, University of Alabama at Birmingham, and Simmons College. Research projects included topics such as “Education Decentralization and Gender Disparities in School Participation in Sub-Saharan Africa,” “Estimations and Implications of the Georgia Personal Income Tax Gap,” and “Effect of SCHIP Premiums on Disenrollment: Focus on Demographics.” All students turned in a final paper and delivered a 30 minute presentation before their peers and faculty mentors on the last two days of the program. Students also attended AYSPS faculty lectures and weekly seminars; organized roundtable discussions on economic research; visited the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta, Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial Site and the Carter Center; and met with faculty and current graduate students in the department.

The intern program received more than 100 applications. Twenty applicants were interviewed and ten offers were made. Six of the ten interns that participated in the program were female. Two of the interns were African American, two were Hispanic, and three were Asian (two of Indian descent and one of Chinese descent). Many graduates of the program have enrolled in top Ph.D. programs in Economics at universities such as Princeton, Minnesota and UNC-Chapel Hill.

Indonesian Masters Program. Several students from the Indonesian Masters Program moved from the M.A. program to the Ph.D. program. These five students are currently working on their doctoral degree and expect to finish in the near future. The program is co-directed by James Alm and Jorge Martinez-Vazquez.

South Africa Study Abroad. The May 2009 economics study abroad program, South Africa: Its Evolving Socio-Political Economy, was a success. Several students from Georgia State, Spelman College and Morehouse College traveled to South Africa for a two-week study abroad program, under the direction of Glenwood Ross.

This was the eighth year of the Economic Studies Abroad in South Africa Program, which began in 2001. This program is designed to follow the spring semester course, The Economy of South Africa. The aim of the Study Abroad Program is to present students with a broad understanding of the workings of the South African economy, its infrastructure, its environment and its governance. Through a series of lectures, in-country discussions with industry and public officials, and site visits, the program participants examine the process of economic and social development, as well as South Africa’s role in the global marketplace. The program also addresses South Africa’s current socio-economic challenges, such as unemployment, poverty, economic inequality and the AIDS epidemic. In addition, it is designed to introduce the students to cultural traditions and important moments in South African history and political development.

The program started off with a historical overview of South Africa and a pre-departure lecture on the general state of the South African economy. The following two weeks were spent in South Africa. Time was split between the Pretoria/Johannesburg area in Gauteng Province, the industrial center of the country, and the Cape Town area of the Western Cape Province. During the course of the stay, the group attended seven formal lectures and had numerous site visits and cultural/historical experiences. The lectures dealt with various aspects of the economy of South Africa and were presented by the economics faculty at the University of Pretoria, the director of the Development Policy Research Unit.
at the University of Cape Town and economic advisor to President Thabo Mbeki, and senior officials at the South African Department of Trade and Industry. This aspect of the study abroad program was particularly rewarding for the students who had taken the spring course. It helped to bring into focus their understanding of the numerous challenges that this resource-rich economy faces.

Tours included visits to Sun City, Shimansky Diamonds, the wine lands of Stellenbosch, Franschhoek, and Paarl, the Lesedi Cultural Village, the Cape of Good Hope, penguin colonies at Boulders Beach, and the Pilanesberg Game Reserve. In addition, there were extensive city tours of Pretoria, Soweto, and Cape Town where the group was exposed to much of the history and diverse culture of the country. Particularly interesting were visits to Nkosi’s Haven, an AIDS orphanage, where students were confronted with the direct impact of the disease, and to three museums that highlighted the anti-apartheid struggle: the Hector Peterson Memorial Museum, the District Six Museum and the Apartheid Museum. In addition, they had the privilege of visiting the informal settlements in the Langa Township.

The 2009 Economic Studies Abroad in South Africa Program was a great learning experience for all. The 2010 Program will take place during the Georgia State Maymester.

PROJECTS

Undergraduate Research Experiences in Economics. (National Science Foundation). James Alm, Principal Investigator. This is a summer intern program. (Renewal, 3-year, $160,000)

Estimating the Effects of Complexity on Tax Compliance: An Experimental Approach (Internal Revenue Service). James Alm, co-Principal Investigator with Michael McKee. (Spring 2007-Winter 2009, $100,000)

Disseminating the Use of Experiments in Economics with the EconPort Digital Library. (National Science Foundation). James C. Cox, Principal Investigator, and J. Todd Swarthout, co-Principal Investigator. The grant is for implementing a national dissemination of EconPort through workshops conducted at the home university and in association with professional conferences. This is the second funded component of a planned long-term commitment to developing and maintaining this state-of-the-art teaching and research facility. (July 1, 2005-Summer 2009, $900,000)

Collaborative Proposal: [AOC]: IT-Enhanced Market Design and Experiments. (National Science Foundation). James C. Cox, Principal Investigator. This grant is funded by the Division of Information and Intelligent Systems. It is a collaborative grant that is linked to grants to Daniel Friedman, Director of the Learning and Experimental Economics Projects Lab at UC Santa Cruz, and James C. Spohrer, Director of Almaden Research Services at IBM. The central topics are concerned with theory and experiments in the intersection of microeconomics and information technology. This is the first funded component of a planned long-term collaboration with Almaden Research Services. (February 1, 2006-January 31, 2009, $249,000)

Proposal to Establish the Atlanta Census Research Data Center. (National Science Foundation/Census Bureau). Julie Hotchkiss (FRBA), Paula Stephan (GSU), and James Singleton (CDC), co-Principal Investigators. (August 10, 2009, $300,000).

Visitors and Presentations

The Economics Department was pleased to host a variety of speakers during 2009.

Economics, Applied Econometrics, Experimental Economics & Microeconomics Seminar Series and Workshops:

January 9 – John Wooders “University of Arizona” presented “Does Experience Teach? Professionals and Minimax Play in the Lab.”

February 2 – Erin L. Krupka (IZA - Institute for the Study of Labor) presented “Identifying Social Norms Using Coordination Games: Why Does Dictator Game Sharing Vary?”

February 4 – Douglas Norton (Florida State University) presented “Endogenous Production Technology in a Public Goods Enterprise.”

February 11 – Ulrich Schmidt (University of Kiel) presented “Errors, Splitting Effect, and Violations of Independence.”

February 18 – David M. Bruner (Appalachian State University) presented.

March 20 – Yan Chen (University of Michigan) presented “Social Comparisons and Contributions to Online Communities: A Field Experiment on MovieLens.”

April 3 – James R. Barth (Auburn University) presented.

April 10 – Alfonso Flores-Lagunes (University of Florida) presented “Nonparametric Identification of Net or Direct Effects.”

August 21 – David Bradford (University of Georgia) presented “Can Credence Advertising Effects Be Isolated? Can They Be Negative?: Evidence From Pharmaceuticals.”

September 25 – Rachana Bhatt (Georgia State University) presented “A Non-Experimental Evaluation of Curricular Effectiveness in Math.”

September 28 – Angelino C. G. Viceisza (International Food Policy Research Institute) presented “An Experiment on the Impact of Weather Shocks and Insurance on Risky Investment.”

October 2 – Elisabet Rutstrom (University of Central Florida) presented “Can Virtual Reality Make Experiments More Policy Relevant?”

October 9 – Daniel Houser (George Mason University) presented “Competition for Trophies Triggers Male Generosity.”

October 12 – Scott Cunningham (Baylor University) presented “Prostitution, Displacement, and the Internet”

October 16 – Derek Neal (University of Chicago) presented “Teacher Incentives and Pay for Percentile.”

November 13 – Henry Thompson (Auburn University) presented “Estimating Factor Proportions Models of Production.”
The Department of Public Management and Policy (PMAP) is ideally positioned for collaborative and interdisciplinary enrichment through its affiliation with the Andrew Young School’s other research components. Its faculty, staff, and graduate students are actively engaged in research and public service projects that inform public policy and enhance the quality and effectiveness of policy implementation and evaluation in the United States as well as internationally. Academic programs are listed in the Academic Assistance section. PMAP faculty are very active in the Centers and Programs of the Andrew Young School of Policy Studies. In addition to work found in those sections, and to publications listed in “Papers, Books and Chapters: Published or Forthcoming,” various other projects are listed below. Harvey K. Newman is the Chair of Public Management and Policy.

HIGHLIGHTS

- PMAP further enhanced its student support services by continuing and expanding events such as the Graduate Student Orientation Program and its series of career development activities, which included a federal government career fair and a nonprofit sector career event.
- PMAP offered a three-week exchange program in Europe for the second time.
- Student enrollment in the Bachelor of Science in Public Policy degree program continued to grow, reaching 200 students. Among the important core courses in the degree, PMAP 3021: Citizenship, the Community, and the Public Service and PMAP 3031: Policy Leadership are popular with undergraduate students.
- The new Master of Public Policy degree enrolled an initial class of 48 students in the fall 2009.
- The University System of Georgia’s Board of Regents approved the proposal for a Ph.D. Program in Public Policy offered by PMAP in addition to the continuation of the Joint Ph.D. Program in Public Policy with the School of Public Policy at Georgia Tech.
- The Atlanta Committee for Progress formed a partnership with the AYSPS that produced seven City of Atlanta Case Studies. The materials gathered by the research team helped to inform the policy debate during the fall 2009 city elections and have already been used in MPA classes. The Atlanta Case Studies series is being posted on the AYSPS web site and turned over to the University Library for a permanent archive.

PROGRAMS AND ACTIVITIES

Faculty Recruitment. The department welcomes a new visiting professor, Karen Ubell. Visiting Lecturer of Public Management and Policy, she earned her undergraduate degree in Public Policy from Duke University and her J.D. from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

M.P.A. Advisory Board. The M.P.A. Advisory Board was created by Department of Public Management and Policy (previously Public Administration and Urban Studies) faculty in 2001 to assess the M.P.A. curriculum to ensure that its graduates meet the needs of today’s public agencies and nonprofit organizations. Board members, many of whom are PAUS Alumni, hold director, managerial, analyst and other administrative positions with local, state and federal agencies and departments, as well as...
nonprofits. Past and present board members have held positions including that of city administrator, tax commissioner, regional agency director, department head, program director, budget and finance director and nonprofit executive director. The board’s mission emphasizes making a positive impact on public service by taking on the primary role as a resource to faculty in communicating the necessary skills, knowledge, ethics and values required to practice in the public sector. This board also offers the program a more formal connection with its alumni as well as supporting the career development opportunities for our present students.

Board members and other experts in the past have addressed questions about finding jobs, making contacts in the public and nonprofit sectors, and the skills necessary to succeed in public service. Katherine G. Willoughby and Theodore H. Poister are the PMAP faculty liaisons with the M.P.A. Advisory Board.

MPA Advisory Board Members:
- Heather Alhadeff, Assistant Director, Bureau of Planning, City of Atlanta
- Jerry Griffin, Executive Director, Association County Commissioners of Georgia
- Jim Higdon, Executive Director of the Georgia Municipal Association
- Ann O’Connor, Enterprise Communications Officer and Associate Director of Policy, Coordinating Office for Terrorism Preparedness and Emergency Response, U.S. Centers for Disease Control, Atlanta, Georgia
- John O’Kane, Senior Vice President of Coxe Curry & Associates
- Karen Webster Parks, Interim CEO, Atlanta Women’s Foundation
- Bob Regus, City Administrator for Alpharetta
- Dana Russell, Executive Vice President, Finance, Georgia Student Finance Commission
- Rick Tangum, Attorney, Legal and Consumer Affairs Division, Georgia Department of Banking and Finance
- Yvette Taylor, Regional Administrator, Region IV, U.S. Department of Transportation
- Amanda Thompson, Planning Services Officer, City of Decatur, Georgia

Nonprofit Programs. The Nonprofit Studies Program (NSP) was created “to educate the next generation of nonprofit leaders, to foster research on the nonprofit sector, and to bridge theory and practice in the creation and dissemination of knowledge.” Atlanta has one of the fastest-growing nonprofit sectors in the United States, providing an ideal location in which to study this sector’s growing influence and challenges. The NSP tackles major issues facing the nonprofit sector, including the impact of technology changes, shifting demographics, global influences and the sector’s increasing linkages to the private and government sectors, through a combination of rigorous academic study, critical research and influential community partnerships.

Faculty members involved with the NSP include recognized experts in areas of nonprofit policy analysis, the economics of the nonprofit sector, nonprofit finance and resource development, nonprofit labor markets, public-private partnerships, philanthropy and international NGOs. The department offers a specialization in nonprofit management in the MPA degree and a specialization in nonprofit and civic leadership in the M.S. in Urban Policy Studies degree program, as well as a 12-credit hour Graduate Certificate in Nonprofit Management.

The department offers several new academic programs in partnership with the Nonprofit Studies Program, including:
- The new Ph.D. in Public Policy featuring a specialization in Public and Nonprofit Management
- Joint Ph.D. in Public Policy featuring a specialization in Public and Nonprofit Management
- Master of Public Administration (MPA)—Nonprofit Management concentration
- Master of Public Policy (MPP)—concentration in Nonprofit Policy
- Graduate Certificate in Nonprofit Management
- Bachelor's of Science in Public Policy—Nonprofit Leadership concentration
- American Humanics certificate
- Dual Degree Program with the University of Barcelona
- Executive Leadership Program in Nonprofit Organizations

For more about this leading-edge center for research and professional education in the nonprofit field, see the Nonprofit Studies Program section of the annual report.

Six excellent new students entered the joint doctoral program in 2009: Karen Cheung, Diana Bartlett, Michael Henderson, Kelechi Nwosu, Ali Qazi, and Na Sai. The numerous accomplishments of the joint program’s doctoral students are listed in the Graduate Students section. Gregory B. Lewis coordinates the Joint Ph.D. Program.

The Public Performance and Management Group. The Public Performance and Management Group (PPM) of the Andrew Young School is committed to promoting state-of-the-art management practices in the public sectors, to advancing both the efficiency and effectiveness of program and financial operations of public agencies, and to supporting the professional, democratic and ethical administration of government in the United States and around the world. Faculty involved in PPM activities include: William Kahnweiler, Theodore H. Poister, Gregory Streib, William W. Waugh Jr., and Katherine G. Willoughby.

Study Abroad. The Andrew Young School’s Study Abroad programs, managed by the PMAP department, offer students an array of study-abroad opportunities in locations including the United Kingdom, Switzerland, South Africa, the EU, and France. Five student exchange programs, such as joint Georgia State University/University of Northumbria (UNN) exchange and the Georgia State University/Institut de Hautes Études en Administration Publique (IDHEAP) at the University of Lausanne, are designed to give students a better understanding of comparative government and international policy. The PMAP Director of International Student and Faculty Exchanges is Carol D. Hansen.

UNN affords students the opportunity to live and study in Newcastle upon Tyne, U.K., while IDHEAP and Hautes Études Commerciales (HEC) at the University of Lausanne, provide these same opportunities in the city of Lausanne, Switzerland. Two Maymester programs are available to AYS and Georgia State students: travel to South Africa, in partnership with Morehouse University and the Department of Economics (among others), and “Europe from a Policy Perspective: Government, Economics, and Leadership,” a 21-day study abroad Program in Strasbourg and Paris, France.

Through the semester-long exchange programs between prominent research universities, graduate students in the fields of Public Administration, Urban Policy Studies, and Economics will gain an awareness of international policy and practice, the tools necessary for work within foreign cultures, and the managerial skills needed to function effectively in a global setting. These programs occur each fall.
Participants will travel to host cities, where they will take courses examining public administration, policy analysis, and/or economics and will reap the benefits of living and learning in a new cultural setting.
Participation permits Georgia State students to establish a collegiate relationship with the faculty and students at UNN, IDHEAP, and HEC. The UNN and IDHEAP programs are open to graduate students in the Public Management and Policy department of the Andrew Young School of Policy Studies. The HEC program is open to students pursuing graduate level degrees in the field of Economics. Students must have completed at least three courses in their respective program at Georgia State. Students will enroll in the equivalent of 12 credit hours at the host institution. Upon successful completion of course work at the host institution, credit will be applied toward the graduation requirements of the students’
MPA, MS-UPS, MAE, or MAE-policy track degree.

In addition to these programs, the PMAP department continues to partner with Cepa-Europe to provide both undergraduate and graduate students with an opportunity to study the policies, the procedures, and the general nature of the European Union. This intensive 21-day study program, “Europe from a Policy Perspective: Government, Economics, and Leadership,” has also been developed into a semester-long program. Both the three-week and semester-long versions of this program are based in the cities of Strasbourg and Paris, France. Excursions to Brussels and Luxembourg are built into both programs and students are afforded the opportunity to explore other portions of Europe during optional weekend trips. Students will tour the EU Parliament building, NATO headquarters, UNESCO, and many other similar institutions. The courses are open to both undergraduate and graduate students from all related Georgia State degree programs. In addition to the associated course work, students participating in the semester-long program have the opportunity to participate in internships while studying aboard. During the semester program, which debuted in Fall 2009, students may receive Georgia State credit for the four courses taught in English at Chateau de Pourtales. Additionally, students have the option of taking classes in English at the University of Strasbourg. Upon successful completion of all program requirements, the appropriate number of credits will be applied to each student’s degree requirements.

AYS will host three to six students from the University of Strasbourg during the 2009-2010 academic year. The École de Management and the Institute for Political and Policy Studies at the University of Strasbourg hold elite Grande École status, as awarded by the French Ministry of Higher Education.
Students must first complete two years at a university or at a special preparatory school in order to qualify to take the highly competitive entrance exams. Both institutes encourage international study; they require all third-year students to spend a full year abroad at a foreign university.

INTERNSHIPS

*This year was another banner one for student internships. Around 75 students completed significant work in the public, nonprofit and private sectors in 2009. A special highlight was an intern who worked for the US
State Department in the American Embassy in London. Our students completed at least 17,500 hours of work for organizations in Atlanta, in the region, across the United States and the world. Below lists just some of the organizations that benefited from the work of our students in 2009:*

Local Governments

- Bureau of Planning, City of Atlanta, Georgia
• Transit Planning Board (TPB) of Metro Atlanta
• Relocation Department, Atlanta Housing Authority
• Department of Economic Development, City of Canton, Georgia
• Office of Process Improvement, DeKalb County, Georgia
• Department of Planning, Douglasville, Georgia
• Office of Workforce Development, Fulton County, Georgia
• Office of Planning & Community Partnerships of Fulton County, Georgia
• Department of Planning, City of Peachtree, Georgia
• Department of Planning and Development, Gwinnett County, Georgia
• Department of Planning, Habersham County, Georgia

State and Federal Governments

• MARTA
• Georgia Council of International Visitors
• Georgia Transit Association
• Georgia Governor’s Office of Planning and Budget

Other Countries

• Amazwi, an international non-governmental organization based in Hoedspruit, South Africa
• Department of State, U.S. Embassy, Wellington, New Zealand
• University of Northumbria, Center of Public Policy, Newcastle, England

Our students are very happy with their internship experiences. Almost all students find our online support to be stellar – 53 percent describe our online course materials as excellent; 43 percent characterize materials as good. Just three percent were uncertain regarding the online course support, while none of the 68 interns completing the course evaluation indicated disappointment with online materials. And students are very happy with the PMAP internship courses; 94 percent indicate being very satisfied or satisfied with the internship course.

Domestic Programs (DPO) is home to several separate programs and activities, many of which are described in detail elsewhere in this report. Some of these programs link the college with the community. The other activities and projects aim to inform the debate on public policy in the metropolitan Atlanta area, the state of Georgia, and the nation through research and education. The issues that are addressed include those associated with the structure of urban area, government tax and expenditure policy, environmental policy, education, program evaluation, social policies, and economic development. Some of the specific topics include the evaluation of pre-K programs, analysis of the transition from welfare to work, studies of teacher retention, a multi-year study of public housing transformation, and studies of the labor market opportunities of low-skilled workers. Domestic Programs also houses Atlanta Census 2000 — a portal that allows easy mapping of census data. Funding comes from a variety of governmental, foundation and business sources. David L. Sjoquist is the Director of Domestic Programs.

Domestic Programs has extensive experience in measuring performance of programs in areas as diverse as education, transportation and information systems. The evaluation and policy analysis projects have included many studies of educational programs. The office’s work in analyzing the effects of Georgia’s innovative HOPE Scholarship and in evaluating the nation’s first universal pre-kindergarten program has brought national attention. Evaluations conducted by the office’s staff range from large-scale statewide and national programs to school-based innovations.

Activities

The Fiscal Research Center provides nonpartisan research, technical assistance and education in the evaluation and design of state and local fiscal and economic policy, including both tax and expenditure issues. (See the Fiscal Research Center section of this report.)

AtlantaCensus2000 is a collaborative effort between the Atlanta Regional Commission and the Fiscal Research Center to support a Web site that provides access to the 1990 and 2000 Censuses of Population and Housing, allows the creation of maps, and contains reports focused on the Atlanta region.

The Educational Policy Group provides research and recommendation on issues related to education policy in Georgia.

The Environmental Economics Group provides research and recommendation on issues related to environmental policy and regulations regionally, nationally and globally.

The Georgia Administrative Data Project involves the development of a database built on the unemployment insurance records from the Georgia Department of Labor and welfare records for the Georgia Department of Human Resources.

The Civic League for Regional Atlanta was founded by the merger of Research Atlanta, the Regional Leadership Forum, and the Metro Group. The Civic League is a metro Atlanta citizen organization dedicated to studying public policy issues confronting the Atlanta region and creating discussions by citizens and leaders about these issues. Although independent, it is housed at the Andrew Young School, which partners with The Civic League.
The Urban-Regional Policy Group provides research and recommendations on issues related to urban and regional policy in Georgia.

PROJECTS

Disadvantaged Student Supplement Fund Pilot Program. Dana K. Rickman. This project develops, distributes and analyzes 2000 surveys in North Carolina to survey teaching practices and school leadership. This project is funded by the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. ($138,470)

Global Environment Facility, Scientific and Technical Advisor. Paul Ferraro. This project provides scientific and technical advice to the Global Environment Facility Advisory Panel of the UNEP. The Global Environment Facility is the financial mechanism for international environmental agreements for biodiversity, climate change, and other environmental projects. This project is funded by the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP). ($64,620)

Kathryn Fuller Science for Nature Fund Visiting Scientist Award. Paul Ferraro. This project designs economic incentives for achieving conservation goals and evaluates the economic and ecological impacts of conservation programs. This project is funded by the World Wildlife Fund. ($46,194)

The Civic League for Regional Atlanta. David Sjoquist. This program studies public policy issues confronting the Atlanta region. This research program is funded by an endowment from the Metropolitan Atlanta Community Foundation. ($64,242)

TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE

The DPO staff provided technical assistance to numerous government officials and agencies. These included:

- Atlanta Committee for Progress
- Atlanta Community Foundation
- Georgia Department of Early Care and Learning
- National Bureau of Economic Research
- National Institute for Early Education Research
- North Carolina Disadvantaged Student Supplemental Funding Program
- University of North Carolina
- United Nations Environment Programme
- U.S. Department of Agriculture
- Woodruff Foundation
- World Wildlife Fund
The Fiscal Research Center (FRC) provides nonpartisan research, technical assistance and education in the evaluation and design of state and local fiscal and economic policy, including both tax and expenditure issues. The FRC mission is to promote the development of sound public policy and public understanding of issues concerning state and local governments. Established in 1995, the program helps provide information to state and local governments so they can make informed decisions about complex fiscal issues. The program has a full-time staff and affiliated faculty from throughout Georgia State University and elsewhere who lead its research projects.

One of the objectives of the FRC is to help inform and stimulate debate on fiscal policy. The Center publishes Policy Briefs, which are widely distributed summaries of longer reports, as well as essays on issues confronting the state. The program also organizes periodic seminars, workshops, luncheons and conferences during which fiscal policy makers, administrators, and faculty discuss fiscal policy issues. David L. Sjoquist is Director of the Fiscal Research Center and Sally Wallace is Associate Director.

Research Agenda

The research agenda of the Fiscal Research Program is composed of three broad categories: Intergovernmental Issues, Tax and Expenditure Policy and the Georgia Economy.

Intergovernmental Issues: This area focuses on issues associated with education financing and delivery of education in Georgia and explores issues inherent in relationships between state and local governments along with fiscal and financial issues of local governments.

Tax and Expenditure Policy: This area includes studies on all types of revenue sources, including the taxation of banking, insurance, and corporations; the structure and impact of income taxation, property taxation; the structure, administration, and effects of sales and excise taxation; and other revenue sources. In addition, the FRC addresses policy issues associated with government budgeting.

The Georgia Economy: This area addresses the many issues relevant to the state’s economic development efforts and studies various sectors and aspects of the Georgia economy such as employment, changes in the distribution of income, and changes in the location of retail sales. In addition, the Georgia Data Project supports Georgia economy policy research with a database built on the Unemployment Insurance records from the Department of Labor, welfare records for the Department of Human Resources, and other agency databases.

OTHER PUBLICATIONS

Fiscal Notes are revenue estimates of proposed legislation distributed to the General Assembly and staff. During 2009, the Fiscal Research Center conducted analysis for over 100 Fiscal Notes.

The Fiscal Research Center released a study prepared for the Creating a New Milton County project. An electronic copy of all the Milton County project reports can be found at vinsoninstitute.org/miltoncounty and at frc.gsu.edu/miltoncounty.html. Funding for this project was provided by the Georgia General Assembly.

VISITORS AND OTHER ACTIVITIES

The Fiscal Research Center was happy to host visiting scholars who traveled to Georgia State University to conduct research.

The Fiscal Research Center participated in several presentations to international visitors to the Andrew Young School of Policy Studies. Visitors learned about various economic development research conducted in the FRC and the Andrew Young School.

The FRC hosted seminars and visiting lecturers on the following subjects:

February 2009
Kevin Milligan (University of British Columbia) presented “Do Child Tax Benefits Affect the Well-Being of Children? Evidence from Canadian Child Benefit Expansions.”

Matthew Kotchen (University of California Santa Barbara) presented “Green Clubs.”

March 2009

Stuart Rosenthal (Syracuse University) presented “Do the GSEs Expand the Supply of Mortgage Credit? New Evidence of Crowd Out in the Secondary Mortgage Market.”

September 2009

Amy Stuart Wells (Center for Understanding Race and Education at Teacher’s College, Columbia University) presented “Metro Migration, Racial Segregation and School Boundaries: Education Policy in Changing Suburban and Urban America” at the 5th Dan E. Sweat Lecture co-hosted by the Fiscal Research Center, the Georgia Partnership for Excellence in Education, The Civic League for Regional Atlanta, and the Georgia State University Department of Educational Policy Studies.

October 2009

John Layman (Department of Taxation, State of Virginia) and Tom Stinson (Minnesota Management and Budget) presented “Revenue Forecasting” for a half-day workshop.

October 2009

Hui Shan (Federal Reserve Board of Governors) presented “Property Taxes and Elderly Mobility.”

October 2009

The conference on Government Programs, Distribution, and Equity was held on October 30, 2009, and was sponsored by the Fiscal Research Center and the International Studies Program. This academic conference explored the link between government programs, policy and the resulting effects on distribution and equity. Attendees gained in-depth information through four sessions addressing Fiscal Redistribution in the United States, International Fiscal Redistribution, Urban Programs and Social Issues:

1. Fiscal Redistribution: United States
   - Howard Chernick (Hunter College) “Redistribution at the State and Local Level: Consequences for Economic Growth”
     Discussant: Willis Sheftall (Morehouse College)
     Discussant: James Marton (Andrew Young School)

2. Fiscal Redistribution: International
   - Andreas Peichl (IZA-Bonn, Germany) “The Redistributive Effects of Tax Benefit Systems in the Enlarged EU” (co-authors: Clemens Fuest of Oxford University and Judith Niehues of University of Cologne)
     Discussant: Mark Rider (Andrew Young School)
   - Klara Peter (Andrew Young School) “Tax Progressivity and Income Inequality” (co-author: Denvil Duncan of the Andrew Young School)
     Discussant: Luc Noiset (Kennesaw State University)

3. Urban Programs
• Tara Watson (Williams College) “Local Fiscal Policies and Urban Wage Structures” (co-authors: Patricia Beeson of University of Pittsburg, and Lara Shore Sheppard of Williams College)
  Discussant: Christopher Cunningham (Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta)
• Dagney Faulk (Ball State University) “Bus Transit in Small Cities: Economic Development Strategy and/or Social Service” (co-author: Michael Hicks of Ball State University)
  Discussant: Andrew Hanson (Andrew Young School)

4. Social Issues
• John Bishop (East Carolina University), John Formby and Hoseong Kim (University of Alabama) “The Redistributive Effects and Cost Effectiveness of Increasing the Federal Minimum Wage”
  Discussant: Barry Hirsch (Andrew Young School)
• Tami Gurley-Calvez and Amy Higginbotham (University of West Virginia) “Academic Achievement: Does More Spending Ease the Effects of Poor Health?”
  Discussant: David Frisvold (Emory University)

Session Chairs included: W. Bartley Hildreth, Jorge Martinez-Vazquez, Dennis Young, and Erdal Tekin of the Andrew Young School.

November 2009
Katherine Baicker (Harvard University School of Public Health) presented “What Does Health Insurance Do? The Oregon Health Insurance Lottery.”

Public Economics Workshops held on the 1st and 3rd Tuesdays of each month. The program is sponsored by the Fiscal Research Center and the International Studies Program. Topics for discussion are broadly defined and include empirical and theoretical topics at the international, national, state, and local level.

PROJECTS

Analysis of Consent Decree (Year Three). David Sjoquist. Funded by the Georgia Department of Human Resources, this project continues to serve as the fiscal agent to assist the accountability agents and provide analytical analysis. ($885,365)

Childcare Industry Economic Impact Study. Sally Wallace. Funded by the University of Georgia, this project analyzes the current childcare workforce and outlines opportunities for future analysis of childcare usage and quality in Georgia. ($147,938)

CSD School Zoning. David Sjoquist. Funded by City Schools of Decatur, this project assists in the preparation of maps for the City Schools of Decatur. ($3,900)

Decision Analytical Tools Study. David Sjoquist. Funded by the Georgia Department of Transportation, this project analyzes and recommends strategies for evaluating department of transportation services. ($193,784)

Early Learning Initiative. Shena Ashley. Funded by the East Lake Foundation, this project develops a performance measurement system for the foundation’s early learning initiative. ($25,200)

Effects of Food Prices and Food Advertising on Body Composition of Children. Erdal Tekin.
This project estimates empirical models, and evaluates results while developing and refining alternative measures of body composition of children. This project is funded by the National Bureau of Economic Research. ($115,542)

Fiscal Economist, State of Georgia. Kenneth Heaghney. Funded by the Georgia Governor’s office, this project provides the Governor’s office of planning and budget services including annual forecast of revenue and analysis of the Georgia economy. ($1,126,327)

History of Applied Welfare Economics. Spencer Banzhaf. Funded by the National Science Foundation, this project explores the history and theoretical developments of applied welfare economics. ($62,953)

Local Government and Employee Survey Analysis. Theodore Poister. Funded by the Georgia Department of Transportation, this project conducts and analyzes local government and employee surveys. ($250,857)

Local Government and Employee Survey Analysis (Additional Tasks). Theodore Poister. Funded by the Georgia Department of Transportation, this project adds additional tasks to conduct and analyze local government and employee surveys. ($124,076)

Occupational Risk, Altruism, and the Value of Life: Studying the Deadliest Catch. Kurt Schnier. Funded by Syracuse University, this project provides econometric analysis of the Alaskan crab fisheries. ($29,625)

Piloting Stakeholder Surveys for the Georgia Department of Transportation. Theodore Poister. Funded by the Georgia Department of Transportation, this project conducts surveys on the process and performance of external shareholders to improve efficiency and develop a more productive working relationship. ($1,117,503)

Policy Issues Facing the City of Atlanta. David Sjoquist. This project designs case studies of the public policy issues facing the City of Atlanta. This project is funded by the Atlanta Committee for Progress. ($21,000)

Public Survey on Managing Lanes and Major Highways. Theodore Poister. Funded by the Georgia Department of Transportation, this project will review background documents, conduct surveys, and analyze results of public perceptions of managed lanes on major state highways. ($370,303)

Southern Appalachian Mountain Willingness to Pay Survey. Spencer Banzhaf. Funded by Resources for the Future, Inc., this project will design and test mail and internet surveys of residents’ values for ecological improvements in the southern Appalachian Mountains. ($63,789)

TANF Study. David Sjoquist. This project studies and evaluates the impact of participation in TANF and food stamp programs. This project is funded by the National Bureau of Economic Research. ($3,499)

Welfare to Work Dynamics. Erdal Tekin. Funded by the University of Baltimore, Maryland, this grant supports research on evaluation of the transition from welfare to work. ($115,000)
TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE

The FRC staff and associated faculty provided technical assistance to numerous government officials and agencies. These included:

- Annie E. Casey Foundation
- Association County Commissioners of Georgia (ACCG)
- Atlanta Committee for Progress
- Board of Regents
- City of Atlanta
- City Schools of Decatur
- East Lake Foundation
- Georgia Research Alliance
- Georgia Department of Early Childcare
- Georgia Department of Human Resources
- Georgia Department of Labor
- Georgia Department of Revenue
- Georgia Department of Transportation
- Georgia Economic Developers Association
- Georgia Governor’s Office
- Georgia Municipal Association
- Kauffman Foundation
- Lincoln Institute of Land Policy
- National Bureau of Economic Research
- National Science Foundation
- Office of Planning and Budget
- Resources for the Future, Inc.
- Senate Research Office
- State of Georgia Budgetary Responsibility Oversight Committee
- Syracuse University
- University of Baltimore, Maryland
- University of Georgia
- University of New Hampshire

In addition, associated staff provided direct assistance to the State of Georgia Senate, House of Representatives, and Governor’s Office.
ExCEN, the Experimental Economics Center, was founded in 2006 and designated as a Georgia State University center on June 6, 2007. ExCEN supports research, teaching and policy applications involving controlled experiments with human decision makers. The Center’s central objective is to promote the development and application of economics and related academic disciplines as empirical science. Ongoing research in ExCEN involves development of economic theory supported by data and policy applications involving empirically-validated theory.

Teaching and research support facilities developed and maintained by ExCEN include the Experimental Economics Laboratory, the Portable Laboratory, the online Subject Recruitment System, and EconPort, the economics digital library and virtual laboratory. National Science Foundation grants supported development of EconPort and its national and international dissemination. Support for ExCEN comes from research grants from the National Science Foundation, United States Agency for International Development, and other grant sources as well as the Georgia Research Alliance and the state government. Professor James C. Cox is the founding Director, Professor Susan K. Laury is Associate Director and J. Todd Swarthout is Operations Director.

Teaching and Outreach—Experimental Economics Lab and EconPort

ExCEN supports graduate and undergraduate teaching. Graduate students Jason Delaney, Daniel Hall, William Holmes, Sarah Jacobson, Ellen Edwards, Stacy Hawkins, Juan Sun, Juan J. Miranda Montero, Danyang Li, Jeffery Condon, Merlin Hanauer, Sandi Kam, Gregory McPhee, Bing Jiang, Andinet Woldemichael, Alexander Brumlit, Cristina Calzada, and Fernando Rios Avila designed research experiments for their graduate studies and participated in ExCEN activities. Economics is a major component of the undergraduate curriculum, and the integration of experiments into economics courses has proven beneficial in supporting student learning to apply the principals of economics to economic decision making in markets and strategic games. Numerous undergraduate students participated in economics experiments held in the laboratory during the spring and fall semesters.

During 2009, the following activities were conducted in the Experimental Economics Laboratory:

- Research: Computerized Experiments – 169.25 hours;
- Research: Hand-Run Experiments – 40 hours;
- Teaching: Active-Learning Experiments – 32.5 hours
- Teaching: Experimental Methods – 34.5 hours;
- Software Testing Sessions – 35.5 hours;
- Experiment Research Meetings – 9.5 hours;
- Miscellaneous/Guest Viewing – 47.83 hours;
- Maintenance Sessions – 48.83 hours.

ExCEN faculty and staff developed and presented EconPort national and international dissemination workshops funded by the National Science Foundation during 2006-2009. The workshops teach professors how to use teaching modules, experiment software, and other digital library content on EconPort to strengthen undergraduate and graduate economics classes. EconPort provides active learning and is accessible to students and faculty via the Internet. Through the use of the Portable Laboratory, experiments and EconPort workshops are conducted by faculty at remote sites and off-campus locations. The Portable Laboratory uses 35 networked laptop computers and specially designed travel cases. The series of dissemination workshops was supported by a $900,000 grant from the National Science Foundation.

During 2009, an EconPort dissemination workshop was presented to interested economics faculty from around the nation. Participating faculty and staff included James C. Cox, J. Todd Swarthout, Susan K. Laury, Vjollca Sadiraj, and Kevin Ackaramongkolrotn. The workshop was held at Georgia State, 37 faculty from 15 states attended the June event.

EconPort is an educational resource used worldwide. From January 1, 2009, through December 31, 2009, the average daily number of page views for the EconPort website was 3,785. At the end of 2009, a total of 2,146 active user accounts were registered on EconPort by instructors and researchers.

GRANT SUPPORT AND COLLABORATION WITH OTHER RESEARCH LABORATORIES

ExCEN faculty developed a collaborative research program with the Learning and Experimental Economics Projects Lab at the University of California at Santa Cruz and IBM’s Almaden Research Services Center. This research program has been supported for three years by two Collaborative Grants from the National Science Foundation to Georgia State University (J.C. Cox, PI) and U.C. Santa Cruz (D. Friedman, PI), with a subcontract to IBM. The research has generated numerous research papers and publications, including two prominent papers with co-authorship that highlight the collaboration: Cox, Friedman, and Gjerstad (Games and Economic Behavior, 2007) and Cox, Friedman, and Sadiraj (Econometrica, 2008). Research under this grant continued throughout 2009.

ExCEN faculty developed a collaborative research program with the School of Public Policy at Georgia Tech University and the International Food Policy Research Institute. This research program has received funding from grants by the United States Agency for International Development (R. Petrie, PI) and the Inter-American Development Bank (R. Petrie, co-PI). The research has already generated contributions to IADB’s 2007 annual report and a submitted paper to a peer-reviewed journal. Research under this grant continued through August 2009.

ExCEN faculty developed a collaborative research program with the Workshop in Political Theory and Policy Analysis at Indiana University. This research program received support from two Collaborative Grants from the National Science Foundation to GSU (J.C. Cox, PI; V. Sadiraj, co-PI) and Indiana University (J.M. Walker, PI; E. Ostrom, co-PI), awarded in July 2009 for three years. The research has already generated an article with co-authorship that highlights the collaboration: Cox, Ostrom, Walker, et al. Southern Economic Journal, 75(4), 2009, 957-975.

ExCEN faculty developed a collaborative educational resource development project with the Vernon Smith Experimental Economics Laboratory at Purdue University. This project has been supported by two collaborative grants from the National Science Foundation to GSU (J.T. Swarthout, PI) and Purdue University (S. Gjerstad, PI). This project developed software for EconPort to support experiments for teaching about long-run equilibrium.

ExCEN faculty developed a collaborative educational resource development project with the Finance and Economics Experimental Laboratory at the University of Exeter (United Kingdom) to incorporate into EconPort the 14 experimental economics software applications developed at the Exeter laboratory.
ExCEN faculty developed a collaborative research program with the Emory Transplant Center of Emory Healthcare. A collaborative proposal was submitted to the Roche Organ Transplantation Research Foundation by GSU faculty (J.C. Cox, PI; P. Ferraro, V. Sadiraj, K. Schnier: co-investigators) and Emory Healthcare faculty and surgeons (Allan D. Kirk, Nicole Turgeon, and Thomas C. Pearson). This proposal was not funded. New proposals to National Institutes of Health are in progress.

ExCEN faculty developed a project that designs economic incentives for achieving conservation goals and evaluated the economic and ecological impacts of conservation programs. This project is funded by the World Wildlife Fund. (Paul Ferraro, PI)

ExCEN faculty conducted research activities designed to evaluate the environmental policies and the institutions that implement the policies, the integration of biophysical and economic information in spatial modeling for environmental decision-making, and the experimental analysis of individual decision-making. This project is funded by the United Nations Environment Programme. (Paul Ferraro, PI)

ExCEN faculty developed an inter-disciplinary collaborative research program with researchers at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill (Martin Doyle, PI), the University of Richmond (Andrew Yates, PI), and Georgia State University (Kurt Schnier, PI). This research program has been supported for three years under three separate Collaborative Grants by the National Science Foundation’s Dynamics of Coupled Natural and Human Systems program to the corresponding institutions under the title “Collaborative Research: The Proper Scale of Environmental Markets with Application to Nitrogen Trading in the Neuse River Basin.”

ExCEN faculty developed a collaborative natural resource and land use research project titled “Modeling Spatial and Temporal Land Use Patterns in Coastal Georgia.” This project has received funding from Georgia Sea Grant, awarded to Andrew Hanson (co-PI) and Kurt E. Schnier (PI).

ExCEN faculty submitted a collaborative pre-proposal titled “An Empirical Investigation of the Impact of Philanthropic Institutional Forms on Giving Behavior” with the Nonprofit Studies Program to The John Templeton Foundation’s Science of Generosity program. A full proposal was not invited. Faculty involved: J.C. Cox and V. Sadiraj of ExCEN and D. Young and S. Ashley of NSP.

ExCEN faculty submitted a collaborative proposal titled “Behavioral and Experimental Testing and Validation of Alternative Highway Revenue Collection Methods” with the Economic Science Laboratory and Department of Economics at the University of Arizona to the Federal Highway Administration. This proposal was not funded. Faculty involved: J.C. Cox.

DExCEN faculty developed a collaborative project to determine the effects of time preferences on a consumer’s decision to insure against catastrophic risks titled “Collaborative Research: The Role of Risk and Time Preferences in Insurance Purchase Decisions.” (GSU Faculty: Susan K. Laury, PI, J. Todd Swarthout, Co-PI and University of South Carolina Faculty: Melayne Morgan McInnes).

Georgia Health Policy Center, established in 1995, provides evidence-based research, program development and policy guidance locally, statewide and nationally to improve health status at the community level. The Center distills its unbiased, qualitative and quantitative research findings to connect decision makers with the objective research and guidance needed to make informed decisions about health policy and programming.

Projects to date focus on some of the most complex policy issues facing health care today including: community and public health, public and private health insurance coverage, long-term care, child health, and community health systems development. Celebrating our 15th anniversary in 2010, the Georgia Health Policy Center is active in all 50 states and more than 200 communities nationwide. Karen J. Minyard is Director of the Georgia Health Policy Center.

Community Health Systems Development

The center’s community health systems development program focuses on helping communities build local capacity to increase access to primary care and improve the health status of their residents. The center provides tailored technical assistance to communities throughout Georgia and in the rest of the U.S.

HRSA National Technical Assistance. Georgia Health Policy Center was awarded a contract by the Health Resources and Services Administration’s (HRSA) Federal Office of Rural Health Policy (FORHP) to provide technical assistance to more than 200 grantees in 50 states. Technical assistance, provided by the center’s Community Health System Development Team (CHSD), includes consultation, assessment, strategic planning, board development, and more to rural communities that have received funding through one or more of the following grant programs: Rural Health Network Planning, Rural Health Network Development and Rural Health Outreach. ($3,645,585)

HRSA Sustainability Program. Georgia Health Policy Center was awarded a contract by the Health Resources and Services Administration’s Federal Office of Rural Health Policy to provide sustainability technical assistance to community network and outreach grantees. ($1,268,128)

Delta States Network Development. Georgia Health Policy Center was awarded a contract by the Health Resources and Services Administration’s Office of Rural Health Policy to provide technical assistance services to the Delta States Rural Development Program (DELTA). ($194,407)

SharedCare, Inc. Network Development. Georgia Health Policy Center is providing technical assistance to SharedCare, a non-profit agency in Myrtle Beach, S.C. Support will include network development by conducting a sustainability assessment, organizing a strategic alignment event, guiding resource diversification planning, and providing ongoing support. ($30,207)

Child Health & Well-Being

The center aims to improve child outcomes and child and family policies in Georgia through applied policy analysis and research. Grants from public and private sources fund programs in the areas of school health, Building Strong Families. The Health Policy Center is the program home for Georgia Building Strong Families, a randomized control research project sponsored by Mathematica Policy Research, under a grant from the Administration for Children and Families. The program provides relationship-sustaining tools to low income, unwed couples who are either expecting a child or have a child less than three months in age. The research measures the well-being of the couple and their focal child over time. ($2,312,204)

Domestic Violence Needs Assessment. Georgia Health Policy Center was contracted by the Georgia Department of Human Services to perform a needs assessment of domestic violence services in Georgia. The assessment addressed whether or not certified violence shelters in Georgia are geographically placed to meet the domestic violence needs of Georgians and determined the optimal mix of shelter versus outreach services. ($30,000)

PeachCare Outreach. Georgia Health Policy Center is working with the Georgia Department of Community Health to develop outreach efforts and member materials for PeachCare for Kids, Georgia’s health insurance program to serve low-income children. ($300,000)

Policy Briefs on Influenza Vaccination of Pregnant Women in Rhode Island and Georgia. The Georgia Health Policy Center used the Pregnancy Risk Assessment Monitoring System (PRAMS) data, provided by the PRAMS Team of the Division of Reproductive Health of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), to create policy briefs for Rhode Island and Georgia. The policy briefs are intended to assist the CDC in advancing the knowledge around influenza vaccination of pregnant women in Rhode Island and Georgia. ($5,000)

Community & Public Health

The center works to fulfill its mission of improving health status at the community level by gathering, analyzing and disseminating information in a manner that fosters collaboration and innovation and builds trust and relationships with local, state and national agencies – both public and private – interested in improving health status.

Castle Technologies. The Georgia Health Policy Center was engaged as the local evaluator in a Castle Technology-led project to develop and pilot a chronic disease prevention and management software for use by a rural free clinic. The center provided archival and primary data to inform the development of the software and conducted focus groups and interviews to assess user perception of value and utility. ($148,000)

Community Health Works Evaluation. Georgia Health Policy Center conducted an evaluation of Community Health Works, a multifaceted rural health network serving the un- and underinsured in central Georgia. The center provided meeting planning, facilitation and documentation services to Community Health Work in preparation for the Center’s Georgia Regional Health Summit. ($398,883)

Community Benefit Convening. Georgia Health Policy Center is convening a leadership discussion about hospital community benefit on behalf of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the National Network of Public Health Institutes. The purpose of the meeting is to inform and engage leaders in the examination of strategies to enhance community benefit practices with a focus on evidence-based approaches to prevention that lower health care costs and reduce health disparities. Particular attention will be given to regional strategies that mobilize the complementary expertise and resources of multiple stakeholders. The goal of the meeting is to assess opportunities and commitment for future work together on advancing the practice of community benefit toward better health for Georgians. ($5,000)

Healthy Belvedere Initiative. Georgia Health Policy Center works with the Community Foundation for Greater Atlanta as the local evaluator for the Kaiser Permanente Community Health Initiative on Healthy Eating and Active Living (HEAL) – a community-based health initiative being implemented in the Belvedere Community in East Atlanta. ($151,036)

National Health Museum Health Information Kiosk. The Georgia Health Policy Center is engaged by the National Health Museum to conduct the formative, process, and preliminary outcome evaluation of a health information kiosk for Early County, Georgia. Assessments include capturing the needs and conceptualizations for the development of the kiosk that will serve a community with low literacy, limited experience with technology, and high rates of health disparities. ($39,609)

Legislative Education Initiative. Georgia Health Policy Center was awarded a grant from the Robert W. Woodruff Foundation to enhance, over the next three years, its efforts to educate legislators about issues of health policy. ($547,906)

Public Health Funding Formula in Georgia. The Georgia Health Policy Center was commissioned by the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation to provide context for the study of the use of Funding Formula in Georgia over time. The work is being conducted in partnership with Dr. James Marton in the Economics Department of the Andrew Young School of Policy Studies. ($32,000)

Implementation of Georgia’s Comprehensive Cancer Control Plan. The Georgia Health Policy Center played a pivotal role in facilitating and providing information for the development of the state’s 2009-2010 Implementation Plan. The center will continue to staff and provide support to the Georgia Cancer Coalition and the Division of Public Health throughout the implementation process. ($45,000)

Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) Supportive Housing Evaluation. Georgia Health Policy Center is working with the River Edge Behavioral Health Center to provide ongoing technical assistance and evaluation support to the River Edge project team implementing the SAMHSA Supportive Housing Program. ($34,036)

Public & Private Insurance Coverage

Georgia Health Policy Center helps shape how Georgia addresses the costs – both monetary and societal – of the uninsured. Private foundations and state and federal agencies invest in a wide range of projects to examine the role of community initiatives in managing care for the uninsured, study health care coverage for young adults, develop a strategy for providing affordable health insurance in Georgia, and evaluate existing services including Medicaid and PeachCare for Kids.

PeachCare for Kids Evaluation. Georgia Health Policy Center was contracted by the Department of Community Health to conduct the annual evaluation of Georgia’s health insurance program to serve low-income children, PeachCare for Kids. In addition to assessing the quality of care received by enrolled children, the evaluation has also included stakeholder surveys and statistical modeling to measure enrollment and cost impacts of both proposed and implemented policy changes. ($560,000)
PRIVATE POLICY & GRANTS MANAGEMENT

Georgia Health Policy Center partners with public and private grant makers to leverage federal, state, local, and philanthropic resources to understand, prioritize and structure investments in health issues. The center is also the research arm and administrative home for the Philanthropic Collaborative for a Healthy Georgia.

Philanthropic Collaborative for a Healthy Georgia Safety Net Study. Georgia Health Policy Center conducted a series of meetings to inform collaborative partners about the infrastructure and capacity of Georgia’s health care safety net services. ($47,500)

Philanthropic Collaborative for a Healthy Georgia Implementation of Fitness Assessments in Schools (HB 229). Georgia Health Policy Center is working with a Georgia Department of Education advisory committee to implement a state law that would require a fitness assessment for all students enrolled in physical education classes. ($692,905)

LONG-TERM CARE

Georgia Health Policy Center is a respected voice on long-term care policy, program development and evaluation in Georgia. The program conducts sound, evidence-based research that contributes to the current body of knowledge on long-term care in the United States.

Evaluation of Georgia's Enhanced Care Program. Since 2005, Georgia Health Policy Center has provided external evaluation support to APS Healthcare and United Healthcare in their performance of the Georgia Enhanced Care Program, a disease management program for Georgia Medicaid members who are aged, blind or disabled. ($470,000)

Aging and Disability Resource Connection Evaluation. Georgia Health Policy Center is providing evaluation and technical assistance services to the Division of Aging Services related to their expansion of the Aging and Disability Resource Connection across Georgia. ($135,000)

Policy Support to the Alzheimer’s Association, Georgia Chapter. The Georgia Health Policy Center is providing research support and policy guidance to the Alzheimer’s Association, Georgia Chapter, in the areas of driver safety, Alzheimer’s surveillance, implementation of national guidelines, and funding for persons with Alzheimer’s disease. ($37,500)

SOCIAL DETERMINANTS OF HEALTH EQUITY

The center works to reduce health disparities by addressing social determinants of health, which we define as the social factors and systems that interact to facilitate or impede individual and community health. We seek policy solutions at local, state and national levels; in public and private settings; and in alignment among all of these.

Health Equity and Systems Thinking Workshop. The Georgia Health Policy Center designed and implemented a two-day workshop for the Minnesota Department of Health (MDH) Center for Health Promotion to build capacity for system thinking and to help clarify the MDH role in supporting health equity in Minnesota. ($10,000)
Developing a “Health in All Policies” approach to Department of Defense Base Realignment and Closures (BRACs). The Georgia Health Policy Center is assisting the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), through a cooperative agreement with the National Network of Public Health Institutes (NNPHI), in identifying key federal, state and local stakeholders in the Fort McPherson Base Realignment and Closure process and constructing facilitated opportunities for them to engage each other in exploring a “Health in All Policies” approach to community redevelopment, including services and care for persons affected by homelessness. The process will be researched and documented as a model to explore with other BRACs throughout the country. ($100,000)

Health Needs Assessment for Kaiser Foundation Health Plan of Georgia’s Service Area. Georgia Health Policy Center conducted a health needs assessment and survey of opportunities to improve the health status of Georgians for the Kaiser Foundation Health Plan of Georgia (KFHP). The assessment covered 28 counties that KFHP currently serves and included an assessment of health disparities and social determinants of health in the area, as well as best practices in addressing these challenges. ($65,484)

The mission of the International Studies Program (ISP) is to provide academic and technical training, research, and technical assistance in support of sound public policy and sustainable economic growth in transition and developing economies. Jorge Martinez-Vazquez is the Director of the International Studies Program.

Projects

Jordan Fiscal Reform II. The USAID/Jordan Fiscal Reform Project II Task Order was awarded to DAI on November 1, 2009. As part of this task order, the International Studies Program was issued an $803,649 subcontract from DAI for this project. The purpose of Jordan Fiscal Reform II Project (FRP II) is to support a technical assistance program to Jordan in the areas of tax and customs administration, budget management, more effective economic policy formulation, and an improved system for valuation and taxation of real property at the national and local levels. The main counterpart for the activity will be the Ministry of Finance (MOF). To achieve these objectives, FRP II has been broken down into 5 main components: Tax Revenue Mobilization; Public Financial Management; MOF Economic Policy Analysis; Customs Administration and Trade Facilitation; and MOF Structure and Operations.

CEPAL: Efficiency, Responsibility, and Innovation: Decentralization and Governance. United Nations Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean contracted the International Studies Program for project called “A Road to Sustainable Development: Efficiency, Responsibility and Innovation: Decentralization and Governance—Public Service Delivery and Intergovernmental Transfers.” The objective is to strengthen the capacity of each region's governments to take advantage of potential benefits and minimize costs of the decentralization process within a framework of multi-level governance. The ISP was contracted to write two reports, “The property tax in Latin-America: an Assessment of the revenue rising problems and options for reform” and “Intergovernmental fiscal transfers and their impact in public service delivery.”

United Cities Global Observatory on Decentralization and Local Governance. The World Secretariat of United Cities and Local Governments contracted the International Studies Program to contribute Chapter 9: Metropolitan Areas to the Global Report on Local Democracy and Decentralisation (GOLD). This chapter provides a general diagnostic of the state of subnational finances in a large number of developed, transition and developing countries, with a particular focus on the current systems of revenue and expenditure assignments along two main dimensions with regard to (1) adequacy in terms of allowing subnational governments sufficient sources of income to fulfill their functional expenditure responsibilities, and (2) the degree of fiscal autonomy that subnational governments can exercise. Jorge Martinez-Vazquez (GSU), Paul Smoke (NYU), and Roy Bahl (GSU) are coordinating the research effort.

West Bengal - The PRI Fiscal Framework (2009 - 2010). ISP was contracted to produce three studies. Study I provides an update on the status of PRI finances in West Bengal with a focus on the gram panchayat level. The scope of this task did not include a full update and analysis of the fiscal situation of all GPs. Instead, case studies of nine GPs, two blocks, and one district were used to provide up-to-date information on the finances of the PRIs in West Bengal, with a focus on the GPs. Data from the PRDD are used to update the status of expenditures, revenues, opening and closing balances for all districts, blocks, and GPs. The first field visits were in July 2009 and the second visits were in September 2009.

Study II provides a detailed assessment of the current state of budgeting and financial management capacity of the PRIs, an assessment of PRI financial management reforms, and focused attention to the capacity of the GPs to manage budgets and fiscal flow. Results from this work support development of a new grant program. It highlights budgeting and financial management issues relevant to creating an efficient flow of funds in such a program, given the capacity of the assessed GPs and PRI. Also, benchmarks that might be considered in a new grant program are provided.

On the basis of the first two studies, Study III outlines a detailed proposal for a new fiscal transfer to gram panchayats, designed to support their financing needs and incentivize enhanced institutional performance. The focus of the new grant is to develop financial management capacity at the gram panchayat level to increase the efficiency and effectiveness of service delivery. The new grant mechanism is also expected to increase the fiscal autonomy of PRIs, a tall order for a grant system in an intergovernmental fiscal structure where over 94 percent of revenues come from grants.

Macedonia - Financing Equitable Service Delivery for All Citizens I (2008 - 2009). The study on designing a system of financing equitable service delivery for all citizens took place in the context of Macedonia’s Programme for Implementation of the Decentralisation Process in 2008-2010. Whilst resting on the foundation of a solid understanding of intergovernmental fiscal transfer design issues and a clear picture of the particularities of intergovernmental relations in Macedonia, the overall objective of this study was to assist the Government of Macedonia in introducing a higher fiscal predictability for local government units, while promoting resource equalization among municipalities. This will, in turn, facilitate equitable service delivery for all citizens throughout the country.

This project aimed to support development of several alternative options for the transfer distribution formula. The options are based on a fiscal gap analysis of local authorities, i.e. the financial difference between expenditure needs and the potential resources, and constraints of the current data collection systems. Based on a preliminary analysis, the study proposed proxy indicators for measuring expenditure needs of various decentralized functions. In addition, by laying out an appropriate curriculum for central and local government officials, the assignment will help strengthen their analytical skills and estimating abilities.

Egypt Decentralization Initiative – Fiscal Support. The ISP has been awarded an additional $1 million by USAID as part of the Egypt – Decentralization Initiative. ISP will serve as a subcontractor to PADCO (Planning and Collaborative International). The continuing work will concentrate on six areas of technical assistance, where GSU is proposing to make substantial contributions to the ongoing decentralization initiative in Egypt. These activities will include: (1) providing technical assistance in the development of a decentralization strategy and implementation plan, and providing continued assistance during the implementation phase of the chosen strategy; (2) strengthening the policy capabilities of modeling, thereby building the new technical office’s analytical capacity; (3) providing support for the decentralization research agenda; (4) providing training programs for central and local government officials; (5) facilitating the development of a national curriculum on decentralization policy, and (6) facilitating donor coordination for decentralization policy. In March 2009, Roy Bahl and Musharraf R. Cyan wrote a paper on grants commissions for Ministry of Local Development, Egypt. The paper developed proposals to set up a commission for distributing revenue to local governments in Egypt, and provided a detailed analysis of institutional characteristics of finance commissions in Australia, India, Pakistan and South Africa.

Pakistan – Tax Policy Review. This review is a 22-month collaboration supporting the Tax Policy Program (TAP), funded by the World Bank and the Government of Pakistan. The objectives are threefold: to provide a comprehensive assessment of Pakistan’s tax system; to learn lessons from countries involved in successful tax policy reforms and lay out options for tax reform in Pakistan; and to build government capacity for fiscal policy analysis. TAP involves a partnership between the Government of Pakistan, the World Bank and the International Studies Program. This project will produce policy papers, country case studies and capacity building support by March 2009. Nine policy papers, described in the 2007 Annual Report, were produced for this project in 2007.

Perú with the Corporacion Andina de Fomento (CAF) – Technical Assistance for Fiscal Decentralization. With the fundamental objective to increase the efficiency and equity of a public sector that is highly fragmented into almost 2000 sub-national governments, the decentralizing process in Peru, initiated in 2002, continues to establish pillars of the national system of fiscal intergovernmental relations. Although progress has been made by defining key elements of the system, the reform currently lacks integration between its technical fundamental components. The Andean Corporation of Foment (ACF), in response to the assistance request of the Government of Peru's Ministry of Finance, has contracted with the International Studies Program to support Fiscal Decentralization in Peru.

In coordination with the Peruvian authorities, The Corporación Andina de Fomento proposes a program of training and technical assistance in the fiscal sector that includes the following objectives:

- Training on sub-national public management
- Analyzing intergovernmental fiscal relations and its impact on territorial fairness
- Redesigning the system
- Sub-national governance training
- Encouraging inter-municipal cooperation for the provision of public services

Bihar Panchayati Raj Institution Finance Study. The World Bank commissioned the ISP to complete a study of Panchayati Raj Institution (PRI) Finances in Bihar. This study aims to understand how PRIs in Bihar are currently financed and staffed, whether funds and functionaries match PRIs’ legal responsibilities, whether there is sufficient fiscal and human resource management autonomy for PRI to influence development outcome at their localities, the expenditure priorities of PRI and how these priorities are formally and informally determined, and the existing accountability framework for public finance at the PRI levels. It will also examine current revenue assignment to PRI and collection effort.

HED- GSU/Cairo University Collaborative Partnership. The ISP was awarded an HED grant for $400,000 to develop a partnership between Georgia State University’s Andrew Young School of Policy Studies (AYSPS) and Cairo University’s Department of Economics, Faculty of Economics and Political Sciences (DOE-FEPS) with the goal of increasing the capacity of the DOE-FEPS faculty in economics research and strengthening outreach capacity in order to serve as a regional hub for teaching and research. This partnership will provide technical assistance in economics in Egypt and the Middle East region. It will enhance the quality of economics teaching and research to serve a variety of stakeholders, including think tanks, development agencies, the Egyptian government, civil society, the private sector, and government policymakers.

Under the USAID IQC: SEGIR Macroeconomic Policy II. Roy Bahl and Musharraf Cyan wrote a paper on the Best Practices in Property Tax - $34,983. This work resulted in the production of a short paper distilling the best practices in property tax reform. The paper draws on the relevant literature and practical examples of country experiences with implementing property tax system reforms, particularly in the context of USAID and other donor-funded projects in developing, transitional and post-conflict countries. The Best Practices Paper further discusses the types of reforms that have been supported, the assistance that has been provided in that support, and explains the before-assistance and after-assistance results in terms of meeting objectives. The Best Practice Paper provides USAID and other donors with guidance on the most salient lessons that arise from this work, in terms of technical aspects regarding the property tax, itself, and indications of the type, duration and intensity of support that is needed.

CURRENT INDEFINITE QUANTITY CONTRACTS (IQC)

The ISP is a member of several USAID Indefinite Quantity Contract (IQC) consortia. These contracts give USAID a quick and easy way to contract out advisory services to the ISP.

USAID IQC: Decentralized Local Governance: The AECOM-GSU Consortium (2004-2010).

The Decentralization IQC has been commissioned to (1) to increase participatory decision-making, transparency, accountability and responsiveness at all levels of government by working with both state and non-state actors; (2) to increase citizen participation in local and national government decision making; (3) to assist local governments to serve as counterweights to central state authorities and to participate in policy making at regional and national levels; (4) to enhance the fiscal adequacy and probity of decentralized democratic governments; and (5) to enable local governments to influence their own destinies by promoting and sustaining local economic development. Moreover, the objective of this activity is to increase the capacity and performance of all levels of government (with specific focus on sub-national government agencies and elected officials) and NGOs to execute public management functions related to the provision and production of public goods and services. The emphasis will be providing technical assistance and training toward these goals, especially the capacity of sub-national governments to obtain, allocate and monitor resources.

Georgia State University is the team’s (PADCO/GSU) major subcontractor, concentrating on supporting policy design and implementation in fiscal decentralization, local revenue generation, local financial management and related training.

The participation by Georgia State University as a leading subcontractor to Louis Berger as part of the SEGIR MACRO II Consortium will build primarily on its expertise in the following subject areas:

Primary areas of technical expertise:

- Macroeconomic policy, including fiscal reform activities and other economic policy activities with both tax and budget elements.
- Fiscal – tax policy and tax administration, including tax policy and tax administration at all government levels, fiscal analysis, revenue and debt management, revenue forecasting.
- Budget policy and administration, including budgetary policy and management, budgetary analysis, debt management, subsidies, public expenditure reviews.
- Economics training and capacity building, including economics training, economic policy education, think-tank networking, and other capacity building activities in the realm of economics, public administration and public policy.

Additional areas of expertise:

- Macroeconomic policy coordination, including performing research and providing technical assistance on harmonizing fiscal, monetary and trade policies.
- Other areas include strategic planning for USAID and public agencies, pricing and subsidies policies, privatization, transportation issues, environmental and energy policy analysis, identification of sectoral issues critical for economic growth.

USAID IQC Sustainable Urban Management II: AECOM Consortium (2004-2009). The SUM IQC provides advisory services, technical assistance and training in support of USAID’s goal of well-managed urbanization and the Environment Center’s strategic support objective of improved management of urbanization in targeted areas. Managed by the Office of Environment and Urban Programs, the SUM IQC delivers services in four functional areas: expanded and equitable delivery of urban services and shelter; more effective, responsive and accountable local governments; reduced urban pollution; and credit program monitoring.

Fiscal Reform in Support of Trade Liberalization II (offered under SEGIR MACRO II). The U.S. Agency for International Development’s Office of Economic Growth, Agriculture and Trade initiated the Fiscal Reform in Support of Trade Liberalization worldwide program (known as The Fiscal Reform Project), which is implemented by a consortium of Development Alternatives, Inc., (DAI) in Washington, D.C., with participation by AYSPS (contracted by DAI through the Louis Berger Group), the Boston Institute for Developing Economies and Training Resources Group, Inc.

Training 2009

Indonesia - USAID Dual Masters Program in Applied Economics. USAID Indonesia awarded the Andrew Young School at Georgia State University a $3 million Cooperative Agreement in support of the dual master’s degree program in applied economics between Georgia State University (GSU) and Gadjah Mada University (UGM). This program builds from ongoing capacity building activities such as our Public Policy Training Courses (held annually since 2000) and our USAID-funded Indonesia Masters program from 2001-2003.

The “tailored” master’s program for staff from the Fiscal Policy Office (FPO), Ministry of Finance includes a strong focus on enhancing the capabilities of all participating parties, including participating Indonesian students, our counterparts at UGM, and GSU faculty and staff through the design, development, and delivery of a comprehensive master’s program tailored to the needs and objectives of the Ministry of Finance. Through this program, the Andrew Young School will assist Indonesia’s Ministry of Finance in developing in-house skills to design, implement and evaluate sound policy reform, including capabilities to provide analyses of the government’s budget process, revenues, expenditures, intergovernmental relations, and evaluation of proposed policy reforms.

Indonesia - Fiscal Decentralization: A Review of Concepts and Applications: Group 2 (2009). The International Studies Program (ISP) delivered a two-week training course on Fiscal Decentralization: A Review of Concepts and Application for Indonesia for 22 participants, representing different government offices from the provincial and local government levels in Papua Province, Indonesia. These include: Revenue, Treasury, Budget, and Asset Departments, Regional Planning and Development, Division of Monitoring & Control, and Research and Development Division. The program is part of the ongoing effort to improve the decentralization process in Indonesia and part of the ongoing collaboration activities between the Andrew Young School of Policy Studies and the Center for Economic and Public Policy Studies (PSEKP), Universitas Gadjah Mada, Indonesia. This course constitutes the second group of government officials from the Papua region to attend a fiscal decentralization course at Georgia State University. The two-week-long course provided an overview of concepts, applications and international best practice of intergovernmental relations, with a focus on applications for fiscal policy and decentralization reforms in Indonesia. The course was customized and included discussions particularly relevant to Papua and Indonesia.

agencies in the Papua region, including regional development and planning board, revenue, finance and asset management office, budgeting division, accounting division, government expenditure division, treasury division, and public works department. The course is part of collaboration activities between the Andrew Young School of Policy Studies and the Center for Economic and Public Policy Studies (PSEKP), Universitas Gadjah Mada, Indonesia. The program is part of the ongoing effort to improve the decentralization process in Indonesia. The three-week-long course provided an introductory overview of the theoretical dimensions of intergovernmental fiscal relations, with a focus on applications for fiscal policy and decentralization reforms in Indonesia.

Indonesia - Fiscal Decentralization: A Review of Concepts and Applications. The International Studies Program (ISP) delivered a one-week training on “Fiscal Decentralization: A Review of Concepts and Application for Indonesia” to a group of national government officials from Indonesia from February 2-6, 2009. The course was sponsored by the Asian Development Bank (ADB) and delivered by Andrew Young School faculty. Six senior level officials attended the course from the Ministry of Finance, division of Directorate General of Fiscal Balance, Regional Tax and Levy, Regional Financing Evaluation, Directorate of Balancing Fund, and Regional Financing and Capacity.

Macedonia - Financing Equitable Service Delivery for All Citizens (2008–2009). The International Studies Program delivered a capacity building training program for central and local government officials. The week-long training course on intergovernmental grants was conducted in Skopje and Struga, Macedonia. The training course was specially designed to support implementation of reform of intergovernmental transfers in Macedonia. The course participants were drawn from the central ministries of finance, local development, education, health and social welfare and 72 municipalities around the country. The participants represented roles and responsibilities relevant to design or implementation of intergovernmental transfers in their respective organizations. The course was conducted by Musharraf R. Cyan.

Perú – Municipal Training in Fiscal Decentralization II. The objective of this activity was to train local authorities and officials from the municipalities associated with Red de Municipalidades Rurales del Perú (REMURPE) on the basic principles of fiscal decentralization. The team was expected to make normative contributions to the ongoing debate on fiscal decentralization in Perú based on the most recent academic research, international experiences, and suggestions of decentralization policy design and implementation; provide a common conceptual framework to analyze the processes; guide local authorities and officials in the analysis of local fiscal issues according to the academic training provided. The team also provided two four-day seminars for local authorities and officials from the associated municipalities, technical advisory assistance to REMURPE staff and representatives, and analytical exercises that applied the concepts delivered during the training. The ISP team consisted of Juan Luis Gomez and Cristian Sepulveda.

Public Policy Summer Training Program 2009. The International Studies Program presented its annual Public Policy Summer Training Program beginning July 7, with a three-week course on Fiscal Decentralization and Local Governance conducted by Eunice Heredia. This course provides a detailed overview of the theoretical and applied dimensions of intergovernmental fiscal relations, with a focus on developing and transitional countries. All participants are employed by government agencies in their home countries.

The training courses, led by a panel of distinguished faculty and leading policy experts with worldwide experience, are designed for government officials and policy makers from developing and transitional countries as well as their counterparts with international donor agencies.
The training program was designed by economics and policy faculty from the Andrew Young School of Policy Studies and took place on the Georgia State campus in Atlanta. In 2008, the program trained over 50 senior government officials and donor agency representatives from countries including Ghana, Gabon, Bhutan, Kenya, Namibia, India, Macedonia, Nigeria, Pakistan, Sudan, Tanzania, Uganda, Vietnam and Zambia. Training included intensive classroom sessions featuring lectures, fiscal policy analysis and simulations, case studies, group discussions, country-specific individual projects and field visits to relevant government offices such as the DeKalb County Tax Assessors office and Georgia Department of Revenue. This is a tuition-based program and has been successfully conducted since 2000. The training courses were led by a panel of faculty and policy experts. Professors and Research Associates within AYSPS who lectured during this course included:

- Jorge Martinez-Vazquez – Director, International Studies Program
- James Alm – Department of Economics
- Roy Bahl – Regents Professor of Economics, Department of Economics
- Sally Wallace – Department of Economics
- Mark Rider – Department of Economics
- Shif Gurmu – Department of Economics
- Andrey Timofeev – International Studies Program
- Eunice Heredia-Ortiz – International Studies Program
- Juan Luis Gomez – International Studies Program
- Cristian Sepulveda – International Studies Program
- Katherine Willoughby – Department of Public Management and Policy

The Fiscal Policy Summer Training Courses were managed by Eunice Heredia-Ortiz with the assistance of the ISP team, Paul Benson, Shereen Bhan, and Hiram Seraphin.

Summer School in Public Economics – V. The International Studies Program conducted its third Summer School in Public Economics, from July 5–10, 2009. The course was sponsored by the Fundacion Rafael del Pino, Spain, in collaboration with the Instituto de Estudios Fiscales, Spain, and the International Studies Program. The course was organized for Spanish professors and government officials. It was taught by renowned public finance experts, including:

- Roger Gordon (University of California, San Diego) Research on Corporate Taxation: Issues and Challenges
- Barry Hirsch (Georgia State University) Wage Differentials and Inequality
- Spencer Banzhaf and Paul Ferraro (Georgia State University) Research in Global Public Goods: Issues and Challenges
- Fred Thompson (Willamette University) Research in Public Management Issues

Dynamic Panel Data Models Featuring Endogenous Interaction and Spatially Correlated Errors
Jan P.A.M. Jacobs, Jenny E. Ligthart, Hendrik Vrijburg, October 2009

Abstract: We extend the three-step generalized methods of moments (GMM) approach of Kapoor, Kelejian, and Prucha (2007), which corrects for spatially correlated errors in static panel data models, by introducing a spatial lag and a one-period lag of the dependent variable as additional explanatory variables. Combining the extended Kapoor, Kelejian, and Prucha (2007) approach with the dynamic panel data model GMM estimators of Arellano and Bond (1991) and Blundell and Bond (1998) and supplementing the dynamic instruments by lagged and weighted exogenous variables as suggested by Kelejian and Robinson (1993) yields new spatial dynamic panel data estimators. The performance of these spatial dynamic panel data estimators is investigated by means of Monte Carlo simulations. We show that differences in bias as well as root mean squared error between spatial GMM estimates and corresponding GMM estimates in which spatial error correlation is ignored are small.

Urbanization and the Poverty Level
Jorge Martinez-Vazquez, Panupong Panudulkitti, and Andrey Timofeev, August 2009

Abstract: This paper analyzes the effect of urbanization level on the poverty level. Our theoretical model suggests a U-shape relationship between the level of urbanization and poverty. Empirically, we estimate the optimal level of urbanization by using: (i) an instrumental variable approach in the framework of the generalized method of moments and (ii) a dynamic panel analysis approach. We also investigate the robustness of the impact of urbanization on the poverty level by examining a variety of linkages. The empirical analysis covers different regions of the world to study whether the magnitude of the urbanization effects varies across regions. Our results support the hypothesis that there exists a U-shape relationship between the level of urbanization and poverty reduction.

Decentralization Measures Revisited
Jorge Martinez-Vazquez and Andrey Timofeev, August 2009

Abstract: For the last half of a century, economists in an ever growing literature have been trying to measure decentralization with the purpose of using that measure as either the dependent or an independent variable in their empirical models. The suggested measures essentially boil down to a few concepts: locally raised own revenues, autonomy on expenditure decisions, locally spent national grants, or the number and size of local units. These basic components have entered decentralization measures in various functional forms: additive, multiplicative, in powers, and various mixes of those. This paper revisits these measures and our main finding is that aggregating those distinct dimensions of decentralization into a single indicator inevitably leads to a loss of information. We conclude that in a multivariate framework the distinct aspects of decentralization should enter regression analyses separately, in the most flexible functional form possible. At the same time, while no single indicator can capture all aspects of decentralization, some indicators are more inclusive and informative than others. Therefore, if for some reason we have to use a single indicator, our study suggests which indicator would be more appropriate for the hypothesis at hand. We illustrate these points examining differences in the empirical behavior of different decentralization indicators in relationship to each other and in their statistical association with some relevant economic outcomes in the fiscal decentralization literature.

How Productive is Public Capital? A Meta-Regression Analysis
Pedro R.D. Bom and Jenny E. Ligthart, August 2009

Abstract: The last two decades have witnessed a great deal of effort devoted to measuring the private output elasticity of public capital, but remarkably little consensus has emerged. This paper estimates the meta-output elasticity of public capital and explains the heterogeneity of primary estimates around this value. We develop a simple approach to measure and correct meta-estimates for bidirectional publication bias. Using meta-regression analysis applied to a sample of 67 studies for the 1983-2008 period, we derive an unconditional meta-output estimate of 0.146 and show that the “true” effect is rather heterogeneous. The intraregional short-run output elasticity amounts to 0.085. In the long run, and after accounting for interregional spillover effects, the contribution of public capital to output increases by a factor of three. The results suggest that the high output elasticities found in the early time-series literature are compatible with long-run (cointegrating) estimates found more recently. We also show that the observed estimates are significantly inflated by bidirectional publication bias.

Direct versus Indirect Taxation: Trends, Theory and Economic Significance
Jorge Martinez-Vazquez, Violeta Vulovic, and Yongzheng Liu, August 2009

Abstract: One of the oldest questions in the theory and practice of taxation is that of the appropriate mix of direct and indirect taxes. The choice between direct and indirect taxes has contributed to a long animated debate, in political and academic circles, regarding the virtues and defects of those two forms of taxation. In this paper we provide an overview of the evolution of the ratio of direct taxes to indirect taxes across countries over the past three decades, the theorizing that has gone behind the alleged superiority of one form of taxation or the other, the determinants that appear to be behind the intensity with which both forms of taxation are used, and the economic relevance of the choice of tax structure in terms of economic growth, macroeconomic stability, the distribution of income, and the flow of foreign direct investment (FDI).

Public Policies and FDI Location: Differences Between Developing and Developed Countries
Timothy Goodspeed, Jorge Martinez-Vazquez, and Li Zhang, August 2009

Abstract: Host country government officials in developing and developed countries alike would like to know the impact of their public policies on foreign investment in their countries. Unfortunately, the literature does not provide a single view, and there are likely to be differences between developing and developed countries. This paper examines the impact of three host country government policies on the host’s FDI stock: taxation, good governance, and infrastructure. We focus on whether the impact of these factors on FDI differs depending on the level of development of the host country. The regression results indicate that FDI is sensitive to host country taxation in developed countries, but not in developing countries; FDI is sensitive to host country corruption in developing countries but not developed; and FDI shows sensitivity to host country infrastructure quality in both developed and developing host countries, though FDI appears to be more sensitive in developing host countries.

Local Government Taxation in Pakistan
Roy Bahl and Musharraf Cyan, August 2009

Abstract: The purpose of this paper is to evaluate the current practice of local government taxation in Pakistan and to point the way toward structural reforms that are both more rational and more in step with Pakistan's vision for its fiscal decentralization. The analysis here is restricted to sub provincial governments, i.e., districts, TMA's and union councils but with a decided emphasis on the former two. We do this by examining the current practice, and by drawing on international comparisons and “best practices” as laid out in the theory of fiscal federalism.

Pakistan Tax Policy Report: Tapping Tax Bases for Development
Jorge Martinez-Vazquez and Kaspar Richter, August 2009

Abstract: Pakistan's economic development is once again threatened by macroeconomic imbalances. Broadly speaking, high growth in the 1960s was followed by low growth in the 1970s, and high growth in the 1980s by low growth in the 1990s, as macroeconomic vulnerabilities derailed development. Supported by a favorable global environment, Pakistan returned to a strong development record for much of this decade. Growth accelerated and fiscal and social indicators improved. But as in the past, the gains proved unsustainable, as economic policies adjusted too little and too late to deterioration in the external environment. The looming crisis is threatening to undo much of the recent development progress.

West Bengal: Fiscal Decentralization to Rural Governments: Analysis and Reform Options
Roy Bahl, Geeta Sethi, and Sally Wallace, July 2009

Abstract: This report is about the fiscal performance of rural local governments in the state of West Bengal. Specifically, our goal is to develop a comprehensive fiscal information system for all rural local governments, and to use these data to evaluate the intergovernmental finance structure in the state. The work is of significant policy importance, given the need to implement programs to respond to the constitutional amendments mandating fiscal decentralization, and to support central and state government initiatives to use the Panchayat Raj Institutions (PRIs) as an important part of its poverty alleviation strategy. A more immediate need in West Bengal (and other states as well) is to support the work of the State Finance Commissions to better integrate rural local governments into the intergovernmental fiscal framework. To date, there has not been a comprehensive review of rural local government finance in West Bengal.

Does Labor Supply Respond to a Flat Tax? Evidence from the Russian Tax Reform
Denvil Duncan and Klara Sabirianova Peter, June 2009

Abstract: We exploit the exogenous change in marginal tax rates created by the Russian flat tax reform of 2001 to identify the effect of taxes on labor supply of males and females. We apply the weighted difference-in-difference regression approach and instrumental variables to the labor supply function estimated on individual panel data. The mean regression results indicate that the tax reform led to a statistically significant increase in male hours of work but had no effect on that of females. However, we find a positive response to tax changes at both tails of the female hour distribution. We also find that the reform increased the probability of finding a job among both males and females. Despite significant variation in individual responses, the aggregate labor supply elasticities are trivial and suggest that reform-induced changes in labor supply were an unlikely explanation for the amplified personal income tax revenues that followed the reform.

Inequality and Volatility Moderation in Russia: Evidence from Micro-Level Panel Data on Consumption and Income
Yuriy Gorodnichenko, Klara Sabirianova Peter, and Dmitriy Stolyarov, June 2009

Abstract: We construct key household and individual economic variables using a panel micro data set from the Russia Longitudinal Monitoring Survey (RLMS) for 1994-2005. We analyze cross-sectional income and consumption inequality and find that inequality decreased during the 2000-2005 economic recovery. The decrease appears to be driven by falling volatility of transitory income shocks. The response of consumption to permanent and transitory income shocks becomes weaker later in the sample, consistent with greater self-insurance against permanent shocks and greater smoothing of transitory shocks. Comparisons of RLMS data with official macroeconomic statistics reveal that national accounts may underestimate the extent of unofficial economic activity and that the official consumer price index may overstate inflation and be prone to quality bias.

South Africa’s Provincial Equitable Share: An Assessment of Issues and Proposals for Reform
James Alm and Jorge Martinez-Vazquez, March 2009

Abstract: The design of any system of transfers is a complex matter, and in practice very few countries are able to get it right, especially at the start of a process of decentralized system of finance. It is quite obvious that South Africa has made great strides in the design of its transfer system, primarily comprised of: an unconditional grant distributed by formula, the “Provincial Equitable Share” (PES); a system of conditional grants; and several other non-conditional transfers. In this report we focus exclusively on the analysis of the existing PES transfer and also on possible options for its reform. Our report consists of three main parts. We first summarize the main features of the PES. We then focus on what may be lacking with the current system. We finish with options for reform.

Working Paper Number 09-03
Fiscal Decentralization and Public Sector Employment: A Cross-Country Analysis
Jorge Martinez-Vazquez and Ming-Hung Yao, March 2009

Abstract: This paper investigates the relationship between public sector employment and fiscal decentralization. We develop a theoretical framework modeling the interactions between the central and sub-national executives regarding the level of public employment at the central and sub-national government levels. In our empirical work, based on a large cross-country dataset, we find that, ceteris paribus, the level of total public sector employees in a country increases with its level of fiscal decentralization. Even though central government employment decreases with decentralization, this is more than fully offset by the increase in employment at the sub-national level accompanying decentralization. Our empirical results also indicate that the relationship between GDP per capita and public sector employment is not monotonic but quadratic, that total public sector employment is higher in unitary countries vis-à-vis federal countries, and that public employment increases with the country’s international economic openness.

Working Paper Number 09-02
Financial Incentives in the Austrian PAYG-Pension System: Micro-Estimation
Roman Raab, February 2009

Abstract: The scope of this paper is to investigate the impact of financial incentives on the retirement decision of private sector workers in Austria. How do financial incentives embedded in the Austrian pension system impact individual retirement behavior? We are using a unique data set of individual social insurance spells. Micro-estimating the impact of financial incentives on the probability of retirement shows that the behavioral response to financial incentives in Austria is relatively large in international comparison. Also, there are striking behavioral differences between men and women. Using the estimates to simulate the response to reform shows that actual retirement ages could be most successfully brought up by a 6 percentage point deduction in pension benefits per year of early retirement.

Working Paper Number 09-01
Food Consumption in Jamaica: A Household and Social Behavior
Shiyuan Chen and Sally Wallace, February 2009

Abstract: This paper explores household food consumption in Jamaica and estimates the effects of related variables on the intensity of consumption. Use of data from the 2001 Jamaica Survey of Living Conditions permits estimation of an Engel curve that reflects the relationship between household food consumption and related variables. As a means to investigate a possible neighborhood effect on food consumption, spatial correlations pertaining to neighborhood food consumption were tested and estimated. The estimated results can be used to help formulate policies that may produce more effective food support distribution programs.

ISP Seminar Series 2009

Visiting Scholars 2009

Magomet Batchaev, Visiting Fulbright Scholar
September 2009–March 2010

Magomet Batchaev holds a Ph.D. in Economics from Peoples’ Friendship University of Russia, Moscow. He is an Associate Professor of Economics at the Department of Accounting, Analysis & Audit of Karachay-Cherkessian State University, Russian Federation, where he teaches Public Finance, Financial Management, Money & Banking, Taxation and other allied disciplines. His research interests focuses on fiscal and monetary policy issues, rural finance and credit infrastructure. During his stay at Georgia State University, he plans to conduct research on Taxes and Economic Growth in Developed Economies (with special emphasis on the U.S.) and its applicability to Russian Federation.

Nicholas Guadalupe Zuniga Espinoza, Visiting Scholar
September 2009

Nicholas Zuniga is a Professor in the Sinaloa State University Sinaloa, México. He holds a Bachelor’s Degree in Economics and a Ph.D. in Social Sciences from the Sinaloa State University, México. He obtained his Master’s Degree in Public Policy from Occident University, Mexico. He has published 10 academic papers and the book Property Tax of Municipal of Sinaloa, Mexico. During his stay at the International Studies Program, he will conduct research in Fiscal Decentralization and Tax Effort of Local Governments in Sinaloa, Mexico.

Yajun Gao, Visiting Scholar
August 2009–August 2010

Yajun Gao is an associate professor in the School of Public Finance and Taxation of Zhongnan University of Economics and Law, China, where she obtained her Ph.D. in economics. She has published more than twenty academic papers and three books, two on the taxation system and laws of China (published by BBP of United Kingdom). She has participated in projects including two projects on the national natural science fund and others with the Education Ministry fund. During her time at the International Studies Program, she will conduct research on the system of personal income tax and the local tax system in the United States, and hopes to do a comparison with the systems in China.

David Patino, Visiting Scholar
September 2009–November 2009

David Patino is an Associate Professor in the Department of Economic History and Institutions and Applied Economics at the University of Seville, Spain. His teaching experience includes core courses at the undergraduate and public finance courses at the graduate (master and doctoral) level. David obtained his doctoral degree in 2004 from the University of Malaga in Spain. His dissertation, on regional tax incidence, was counted as one the three best works of its type, on economics, law and social topics of the country by the Economic and Social Council of Spain, which later published the thesis.

His research encompasses a wide variety of topics related with fiscal federalism. His most recent publications focus on fiscal balances, the determinants of regional financial systems of federal countries, and the economic impact of urban planning. In addition, his current work also focuses on the analysis of personal income distribution in Spain. He has published in some of the most prestigious economic journals in Spain, such as Revista de Estudios Regionales, Revista Vasca de Hacienda Pública, Revista de Economía Mundial and Revista de Economía Aplicada. He has also published a number of book chapters.

Francois Vaillancourt, Visiting Professor
September–November 2009

Dr. Vaillancourt is a full professor in the Department of Economics at the University of Montreal, Canada. In 1978 he earned his Ph.D. from Queen’s University of Ontario, Canada. Dr. Vaillancourt’s major research interests are in the area of public economics, language economics and public policy, economics of human resources in Canada and throughout the world (New Zealand and Europe; twelve countries of Bhutan in Tunisia while passing by Congo DRC, Morocco and Pakistan). He is interested in public economy, with the federalism (distribution of the capacities, mechanisms of financing) and with the taxation (costs for collection, harmonization, local taxation, companies of State). In economy of the language, he treats variations of incomes and impact of the linguistic policies, whereas in human resources, he is more focused on the distribution of income and the social policies. He has been involved in numerous publications on these topics and has co-authored a number of publications and reports.

At the International Studies Program, he has been a co-manager, delivering (French) training here at the Andrew Young School to government officials from the Democratic Republic of Congo with a training course on Fiscal Decentralization and Local Governance, run from September 21-October 2, 2009. He will also be presenting on seminar topics of interest.

Xiaodong Wang, Visiting Scholar
September 2009–September 2010

Xiaodong Wang is a lecturer with the Department of Economics, Changchun Taxation College, China, the only university under the administration of State Bureau of Taxation. She holds two bachelor degrees, one in Public Finance from Changchun Taxation College, the other in Law from Jilin University, China, and a Master's degree in International Relations (mainly focusing on international trade and economic cooperation) from Waseda University, Japan. She is now a Ph.D. candidate majoring in economics in Jilin University, China.

She has been doing academic research on environmental policy and institutional arrangements in U.S., Japan and Germany. During her stay at ISP, she is going to conduct a comparative research of the environmental policy in U.S., Japan and Germany, and apply benefit-cost analysis tools to the evaluation of their environmental policy and examine the economic incentives for natural resource regeneration and environmental protection, which would provide some enlightenment to the environmental problem-solving in China. She is also interested in issues such as emission trading and green index accounts.

Qichun Zhang, Visiting Scholar
September 2009–August 2010

Qichun Zhang is a professor in the School of Economics and management in Huazhong Normal University, China. She obtained her Ph.D. degree from Institute of Regional Economy and Urban Management, School of Public Administration, Renmin University of China. She continued to post-doctoral research at the Research Center of Institute of Finance and Trade Economics, Chinese Academy of Social Sciences. She has published more than 30 academic papers and one book. She is in charge of a national social science fund project, a research project sponsored by the Ministry of Personnel of PRC and a provincial social science fund project. She has participated in a national natural science fund project and a national key social science fund project. During her time at the International Studies Program, she will conduct research on equalization in basic regional public service and the balance system of governmental finance, a comparative study of intergovernmental fiscal relations in the United States and China.

Xinqiong Gan, Visiting Fulbright Professor, September 1, 2008–July 1, 2009
School of Public Finance and Taxation, Zhongnan University of Economics and Law, Wuhan, Hubei, China

Xinqiong Gan is a professor in the School of Public Finance and Taxation at Zhongnan University of Economics and Law in Wuhan, Hubei China. During her time at the ISP, she will conduct research on the project “A Study on Solutions to the Fiscal Straits of Chinese Local Governments: A Comparative Study of Local Government Fiscal Systems in the United States and China.”
Wenchun Zhang, Visiting Research Scholar, October 1, 2008–November 30, 2009
Renmin University, China

Wenchun Zhang is an associate professor and vice chair in the Department of Public Finance, School of Finance at Renmin University of China in Beijing, China. He holds B.A. and M.A. in economics from Dongbei University of Finance and Economics and Ph.D. in economics from Renmin University of China. His research interests are tax reform and international taxation. During his time at the ISP, he will conduct research on the project “A Comparative Study of Intergovernmental Fiscal Relations in the United States and China.”
The Nonprofit Studies Program (NSP) was organized in 2001 to foster collaborative research on the nonprofit sector within the academic community, to promote policy research that is relevant in today’s political and economic environment, to educate nonprofit managers and leaders, and to serve as a link between scholars and nonprofit practitioners in creating and disseminating knowledge about the sector. The Program involves educational, research and service activities focused on helping nonprofit organizations address their social missions effectively through problem-solving, policy advocacy and effective deployment of their resources. The Program is interdisciplinary and has special strengths in economic analysis, resource development and management, and policy analysis applied to the concerns of nonprofit organizations. It includes some 30 core and associated faculty from the Andrew Young School, other schools and colleges of Georgia State University, and other local universities. Dennis Young is Director of the Nonprofit Studies Program.

Highlights

In 2009 the Nonprofit Studies Program continued to grow as a major academic center. By the fall semester, we had 25 students enrolled in the new Bachelors in Public Policy Program who had chosen a concentration in Nonprofit Leadership, more than double last year’s numbers. Fifty students were enrolled in either the MPA program with a concentration in Nonprofit Management or in the MPP program with a concentration in Nonprofit Policy. Another seven students were enrolled in the Nonprofit Management certificate program, and nine doctoral students were focusing their research on nonprofit studies.

In fall semester 2009, the Nonprofit Studies Program welcomed Woods Bowman, Professor of Public Service at DePaul University, as an AYSPS Visiting Scholar. Professor Bowman has an MPA and a PhD in Economics from the Maxwell School at Syracuse University. His distinguished public service has included work as a research economist at the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, 14 years as an elected member of the Illinois House of Representatives, and four years as Chief Financial Officer for Cook County in Chicago. Professor Bowman’s research interests include nonprofit finance and financial health, the value of volunteer time, and the relationship between confidence in charitable organizations and volunteering. He spent the semester teaching PMAP 8262: Nonprofit Financial Management and collaborating with other NSP researchers on joint research, and he presented a research seminar in October.

Two NSP students received notable recognitions this year. Jasmine McGinnis, a doctoral student in Public Management and Policy (PMAP), was the co-winner for the best poster award from the Association for Research on Nonprofit Organizations and Voluntary Action (ARNOVA) with her paper “Elite Philanthropy Networks in a Local Grants Economy: Who’s In and Who’s Out?” Ms. McGinnis was the winner of the Morris W. H. Collins, Jr., Award for Most Outstanding Doctoral Student Paper Award at the 2009 Southeastern Conference of Public Administration with her paper, “The Young and the Restless: Generation Y in the Nonprofit Workforce.” Ms. McGinnis was also selected as a Summer Fellow in the University of Texas RGK Center for Philanthropy and Community Service Summer Fellowship Program. Nicholas Harvey, also a doctoral student in PMAP, was selected as the Georgia State University 2009 recipient of the Torch of Peace Award for Graduate Student. Torch of Peace recipients are chosen for their outstanding leadership and contributions to Georgia State and the Atlanta community, and for their work to promote positive race relations. Awards were presented at the university’s 26th Annual Martin Luther King, Jr. Convocation, on January 15, 2009, in the Student Center Speaker’s Auditorium.
The NSP continued to be generously supported by the community in pursuit of its mission. A large grant from the UPS Foundation supported scholarships for students in the 2009 Executive Leadership Program for Nonprofit Organizations. The NSP also received generous gifts from Northern Trust Bank, Alston + Bird, Calvin Edwards & Company, United Way, the Woodruff Arts Center, and Coxe Curry & Associates to support its various programs.

With the help of its Advisory Board, the NSP has continued to pursue strategic planning and resource development. Individual board members have generously contributed to a fund designed to match the challenge grant of board member Michael Kay for the purpose of starting up a new journal, Nonprofit Policy Forum, planned for start-up in 2010.

Educational Initiatives

American Humanics Program. American Humanics (AH) is a national alliance of colleges, universities and nonprofit organizations dedicated to preparing students for careers in nonprofit leadership. Since joining AH in late 2008, the AYS student membership in this certification program has grown from an inaugural class of three students to a student body of 55 undergraduate and graduate students at the end of 2009. Dr. Maggie Tolan was appointed this year as the American Humanics Campus Executive Director.

As part of developing and improving their leadership competencies, the AH student organization prepared in 2009 for its first annual Nonprofit Career Information Fair to be held in the spring of 2010 and intended to bring local nonprofit agencies to campus to help educate and communicate the viability of career opportunities in the nonprofit sector. The student organization worked on its fundraising campaign strategy, and through its efforts hopes to fund the registration and travel of at least 10 students to attend the National American Humanics Management Institute in Orlando, Florida, in January 2011.

Executive Leadership Program for Nonprofit Organizations (ELPNO). In June 2009, the NSP partnered with the Georgia Center for Nonprofits and Emory University’s Center on Ethics for a third year to offer a one-week course in executive leadership for top leaders of nonprofit organizations. Twelve executives from nonprofit organizations in Georgia, as well as one from Maryland, participated in the course and received a certificate of completion. The faculty was drawn from the NSP, the Public Performance and Management Group of the AYSPS, Emory University, and universities nationwide including Georgetown University, the University of Minnesota and the University of Dayton. Panelists and keynote speakers included distinguished practitioners from Atlanta and Chicago.

Barcelona Distance Learning Program. The NSP continued its collaboration with the Center for Research in Social Enterprise, University of Barcelona, Spain, to expand that University’s Spanish-language, web-based, distance learning master’s degree programs in Social Economy and Corporate Social Responsibility. The purpose of the collaboration is to help extend the reach of these programs in North and South America and to enhance their content with American perspectives. The NSP, in conjunction with the Center for Ethics at the Robinson College of Business, hosted a second residential program in Atlanta in May 2009, for students in the University of Barcelona’s programs. Georgia State graduate students in the Andrew Young School and the Robinson College of Business also participated, through a new course in Social Enterprise designed and taught by NSP professor Janelle Kerlin, which interfaced with the Barcelona program.

EDEN Doctoral Seminar on Non-Profit Organisations and Management. In November, Dennis
Young and doctoral student Jasmine McGinnis participated in a five-day program of doctoral study sponsored by the European Institute for the Advanced Study of Management (EIASM) in Brussels. Professor Young was one of three principal lecturers throughout the week.

Events and Activities

Research Seminar Series. Our research seminar series in 2009 offered opportunities for faculty, students and interested members of the Atlanta community to discuss research in progress. The sessions were led by faculty and researchers associated with the NSP:

- Calvin Edwards (Calvin Edwards and Company) on “Orientations to Due Diligence and Evaluation,” January 27
- Doug Norton (Florida State University) on “Command, Control, and Transparency in Retained Earnings Maximizing Nonprofit Enterprises,” (jointly sponsored with AYSPS Experimental Economics Center) February 4
- Dennis Young and Amanda Wilsker (AYSPS) on “Financing Nonprofits,” February 24
- John Boli (Emory University) on “Religious INGOs and World Culture,” March 24
- Janet Rechtman (UGA) “On Being a Nonprofit Executive Director,” September 15
- Woods Bowman (DePaul University) on “Metrics of Financial Health for Nonprofit Organizations,” October 13
- ARNOVA Paper Presentations: Dennis Young, Bruce Seaman, Janelle Kerlin, Amanda Wilsker, Susan Manikowski, Nick Harvey, Fang Xiao, Alexander Brumlik, Jasmine McGinnis, Lauren Edwards, Lewis Faulk, November 3

Nonprofit Executive Roundtable. The 9th Annual Nonprofit Executive Roundtable took place on April 3, 2009, and featured attorney Marc Owens, a member of the Washington, D.C., law firm of Caplin & Drysdale, who spoke on “Profit-Making by Nonprofit Organizations: Organizational Strategies and Tax Implications.” This presentation was followed by an audience question-and-answer session. The second half of the program included panel presentations by Cassady Brewer, an Atlanta attorney who was involved in the development of L3Cs—a new legal form of social enterprise that can be advantageous for foundations making program-related investments; David Jackson, a nonprofit executive with on-the-ground experience with implementing for-profit activities; and NSP professor Janelle Kerlin, who has studied social enterprise globally.

Nonprofit Issues Forum. The Nonprofit Studies Program, along with community partners The Foundation Center-Atlanta, the Southeastern Council of Foundations, United Way of Metropolitan Atlanta, the Woodruff Arts Center, and Alston+Bird sponsored two public forums in 2009. The first event took place at the Rich Theater in the Woodruff Arts Center on May 29 and featured Dan Pallotta, author of the recently published book Uncharitable: How Restraints on Nonprofits Undermine their Potential. Following Mr. Pallotta’s lecture, there was a panel discussion moderated by Joe Bankoff, President and CEO of the Woodruff Arts Center, with panel members Bill Bolling, Founder and Executive Director of the Atlanta Community Food Bank; Martin Lehfeldt, author and former President of the Southeastern Council of Foundations; Milton J. Little, Jr., President and CEO of United Way of Metropolitan Atlanta; and Carol Naughton, Vice President for New Community Ventures, LLC. The event was attended by more than 300 nonprofit leaders and scholars.

A second event in the Nonprofit Issues Forum series took place at the AYSPS on December 4, and was titled “Governing Nonprofit Organizations: Should Stakeholders be in Charge?” Dennis Young, Bernard B. and Eugenia A. Ramsey Professor of Private Enterprise and Director of the Nonprofit Studies Program, gave the keynote address, ending with a controversial proposal involving election of nonprofit board members by the resource-providing constituencies of these organizations, in proportions reflecting the alternative sources of an organization’s income. Professor Young’s proposal received lively debate from a panel, chaired by Mike Howland, Executive Director of the Southeastern Council of Foundations and including Prof. Marjorie Fine Knowles of the Georgia State College of Law; Ms. Penelope McPhee, President of the Arthur M. Blank Foundation; and Mr. Oz Nelson, retired CEO of UPS and chair of United Way of America, United Way of Metropolitan Atlanta and the Annie E. Casey Foundation. Some 120 nonprofit leaders and scholars attended.

ARNOVA Conference. The NSP continues to be one of about a dozen Institutional Supporting Members of the Association for Research on Nonprofit Organizations and Voluntary Action (ARNOVA). This year’s 38th annual research conference was held in Cleveland, Ohio, in November. The NSP was prominently represented at the conference with three regular faculty members, one visiting faculty member, eight graduate students, and one staff member delivering papers or serving as chairs and discussants of sessions. For the second year in a row, an NSP paper was the winner of the Poster Session award.

Other Invited Presentations and Conference Participation. Faculty and staff of the NSP gave invited presentations, discussed papers and led sessions at several other national and international scholarly and professional conferences and venues in 2009. These included:

- Dennis Young on “Social Entrepreneurship and the Financing of Social Enterprise” at a conference on The Economics of Social Investment at the Open University, Milton Keynes, England, March 23
- Dennis Young’s participation in the conference of the University Network for Social Entrepreneurship at the Business School at Oxford University on March 24-25
- Janelle Kerlin and Amanda Wilsker’s panel presentation during the session, “Financing your Nonprofit Social Enterprise in Difficult Economic Times,” 2009 Social Enterprise Summit, Social Enterprise Alliance, New Orleans, April 17
- Dennis Young on “The U.S. Experience with Nonprofit Sector Reform and on Policies to Encourage Philanthropy,” at a conference in April sponsored by the Australian Centre for Philanthropy and Nonprofit Studies at the Queensland University of Technology on the theme of “Modernising Charity Law”
- Dennis Young’s participation in the Australian Davos Connection Summit held in Sydney in April, which focused on the theme of encouraging philanthropy in Australia. It was sponsored by the Business Council of Australia in collaboration with major corporations and university centers in Australia to present recommendations to the Prime Minister for engaging philanthropy to address Australia’s economic and social challenges.
- Bruce Seaman’s plenary session lecture, “Culture, Wealth and the Welfare of Nations,” at the International Conference on Economy and Culture, Barcelona, Spain, May 20
- Dennis Young’s keynote speech and session leadership at the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants Not-for-Profit Industry Conference, Washington, D.C., June
• Janelle Kerlin on “Comparative Social Enterprise and Social Origins Theory: Towards an International Conceptual Framework for Social Enterprise, 2nd EMES International Conference on Social Enterprise, University of Trento, Trento, Italy, July 2
• Dennis Young’s keynote speech and faculty instruction at the European Summer School on Social Economy, University of Bologna, Bertinoro, Italy, July (funded by a Fulbright Specialist Grant in Business Administration)
• Dennis Young on “The Economics of Nonprofit Governance,” CNAM/EMES Conference on Civil Society Organization and Governance, University of Paris, September
• Janet Johnson on “The Structure, Conduct and Performance of the U.S. Nonprofit Sector,” presented at the University of Canterbury, Christchurch, New Zealand, October 16
• Lewis Faulk, Ph.D. student (PMAP), and Jasmine McGinnis, Ph.D. student (PMAP), on “Understanding the Philanthropic Marketplace: An analysis of the local grants economy” at the Association of Philanthropic Counsel’s Educational Forum conference held at Emory University, November 5-7
• Dennis Young as commentator, European Programme in Civil Society Leadership (EPICS), Dublin, November
• Dennis Young as keynote speaker, seminar presenter and discussion leader at the Helen Bader Institute, University of Wisconsin/Milwaukee, December

Research Projects

“Nonprofit Georgia” Research Project. This project was initiated in late 2007 to study patterns and trends in Georgia’s nonprofit landscape since 2000, and to provide a benchmark for tracking future trends. To date, research has continued on the operations of public charities, particularly on how they are financed and different measures of their financial health. Analysis also has involved private foundation giving, and how this giving affects the flow of resources in the economy. The focus in 2009 has been on examining the usefulness of financial ratios and other performance measures over a multi-year time period for a specific subsector (homeless service providers) in a specific market (Fulton and DeKalb counties in Atlanta).

Comparative Social Enterprise Project. This international project examines, from a local perspective, the diverse ways social enterprise has emerged in different areas around the world. As a collaborative effort, it resulted in an edited volume that brings together essays on social enterprise from seven regions and countries: Western Europe, East-Central Europe, Southeast Asia, the United States, Zimbabwe and Zambia, Argentina, and Japan. Providing information from a broad organizational and contextual perspective, the volume facilitates cross-cultural understanding and exchange and provides insights into the importance of context in the development of social enterprises. The book, titled Social Enterprise: A Global Comparison, was published by Tufts University Press in November 2009.

Establishment of a New Policy Journal. Nonprofit Policy Forum, a proposed refereed international journal sponsored by the Nonprofit Studies Program of the Andrew Young School of Policy Studies, welcomed an additional Institutional Partner in 2009. The journal’s board is now composed of centers for nonprofit study at the following institutions: Ben Gurion University of the Negev (Israel), Caring to Change (associated with the Aspen Institute), Ersta Sköndal University College (Sweden), George Mason University, Georgetown University, Heidelberg University (Germany), Open University (UK), Osaka University (Japan), Queensland University of Technology (Australia), Rockefeller Archives Center, Stockholm School of Economics (Sweden), Trinity College (Ireland), University of Minnesota, University of Pittsburgh, University of Southern California, The Urban Institute and Vienna University of Economics. Activity in 2009 included informal meetings with partners in Brussels and Cleveland, and selection of Berkeley Electronic Press as publisher (final contract signed February 2010). The first volume is planned for fall 2010. A primary goal of NPF is to provide nonprofit leaders and policy-makers worldwide with readily accessible and relevant scholarly research on public policy affecting nonprofit organizations.

Competition and Collaboration in the Nonprofit Sector. NSP researchers continued in 2009 to work on a variety of topics that related to the structure of the nonprofit sector and its subsectors: the distribution of public charities and foundations by geography, the giving patterns of institutional philanthropy, concentration of nonprofit activities in the largest organizations, the financial composition of nonprofit revenues, and the measures and determinants of financial health. This work is identified with an overarching theme: Competition and Collaboration in the Nonprofit Sector. The NSP is “branding” this theme for greater visibility of its research program and to develop funders who would support sustained research devoted to this theme.

SERVICE

The NSP faculty has been engaged in a variety of service activities aimed at improving the management capacity of local, national and international nonprofit organizations, including the following:

- NSP faculty participated on advisory boards of local nonprofit organizations, including the Foundation Center-Atlanta. They have offered consulting or advised the Woodruff Arts Center, the Georgia Arts Council, and the Metropolitan Atlanta Arts Coalition. One faculty member served as a grant reviewer of Walton Family Foundation Charter School Grant Awards for the Georgia Charter Schools Association.

- NSP faculty members are serving on a number of important national or international advisory committees or boards, including the advisory board for the International Encyclopedia of Civil Society; the Board of the National Center on Nonprofit Enterprise; the Advisory Council for Social Entrepreneurship of Ashoka; the Scientific Committee, Conference on Governance of Civil Society Organizations, University of Paris, France; the Conference Scientific Committee, 2nd EMES International Conference on Social Enterprise, Trento, Italy; the governing board of the National Council of Nonprofits Associations (NCN); the Nonprofit Academic Centers Council; the ARNOVA Publications Committee; the International Advisory Board of The Nonprofit Review (journal of the Japan Nonprofit Organization Research Association); and the editorial boards of American Review of Public Administration, Journal of Cultural Economics and Nonprofit Management and Leadership.

- NSP faculty offered workshops, speeches, lectures and other presentations to several groups including the Indiana University Center on Philanthropy Ph.D. Research seminar (webcast), the Council for Advancement and Support of Education (CASE) III District Meeting in Atlanta, and the 17th Annual Performing Arts Managers Conference.

The Public Performance and Management Group (PPM) was established in 2006 to offer an array of resources and solutions to assist public administrators in strengthening strategic and operational performance. Core activities include executive level training & development; applied research, policy analysis and evaluation; short- and long-term assistance with planning and performance improvement; and dissemination of effective practices. Deon Locklin is Director of PPM.

The goal of PPM is improved public sector performance. Faculty and associates pool their diverse skills and expertise to assist state and local governments with various projects. Activities are highly customized to meet the unique needs of public sector administrators facing the complex challenges of contemporary governance. PPM is funded through external grants and contracts.

HIGHLIGHTS

State of Georgia Research

Multiple State of Georgia agencies and programs participated in PPM’s statewide studies in 2009, and all research activities were guided by Governor Sonny Perdue’s goal for Georgia to be at the top of national rankings for the “Best-Managed States in America.”

State of Georgia Customer Satisfaction Research

In partnership with the Governor’s Office of Customer Service, PPM implemented the Georgia Service Quality Index (GSQI), which measures customers’ perceptions of service quality and level of satisfaction with a wide range State of Georgia services. Results from this research enabled the State of Georgia, as well as individual state agencies and programs, to identify and address priority areas for service improvement and service redesign. The GSQI, developed by PPM specifically for the State of Georgia, measures six attributes of service quality: accessible, courteous, faster, helpful, knowledgeable, and responsive. A measure of overall customer satisfaction is also included.

State of Georgia Employee Satisfaction Research

The Governor’s Office of Customer Service continued working with PPM in 2009 to implement the Workplace Satisfaction Index (WSI), which measures state employees’ perceptions of the quality of their workplace and level of employee satisfaction. Results from this research enabled the State of Georgia, as well as individual state agencies and programs, to identify and address priority areas for workplace improvements that will drive higher satisfaction among employees. The WSI, developed by PPM specifically for the State of Georgia, measures five dimensions of workplace quality: credibility, respect, fairness, pride and camaraderie. A measure of overall employee satisfaction is also included. A measure of job security was added in 2009.

International Activities

PPM representatives traveled to the University of Strasbourg (France) and the University of Nuremberg (Germany) in 2009 for dialogue with university administrators and faculty regarding potential research and symposia in topics of mutual interest. Multiple opportunities for collaboration were identified. In June, PPM hosted Dr. Patrick Dollat from the University of Strasbourg and Dr. Daniel Gossel of the University of Nuremberg to serve as guest speakers for a June symposium, “Immigration Policy and Human Rights,” sponsored by the Center for Human Rights and Democracy at Georgia State University.

Program for Rehabilitation Leadership

PPM is also home to the Program for Rehabilitation Leadership (PRL), an outreach program nationally recognized for supporting the implementation of disability and employment policy. Through diverse training, technical assistance, and research activities, PRL assists state and local service systems. Activities were funded in 2009 through the U.S. Department of Education, Rehabilitation Services Administration. A phase out of federal funding for PRL began in 2008, due to changes in the Rehabilitation Services Administration’s grant program and discretionary funding priorities. Final PRL activities were completed during the first half of 2009.

PPM Funded Projects for 2009

Research projects for the Georgia Governor’s Office of Customer Service. Deon Locklin, Principal Investigator. (2008-2009, $515,003) Tasks included:

- Statewide application of the Georgia Service Quality Index, involving customers of multiple state agencies representing the following policy areas for Georgia: Healthy, Educated, Safe, Growing, Best Managed. Customer groups included citizens, businesses, local governments, and state agencies providing internal services.
- Statewide application of the Georgia Workplace Satisfaction Index, involving employees of multiple state agencies representing the following policy areas for Georgia: Healthy, Educated, Safe, Growing, Best Managed.
- Agency-level application of service quality/customer satisfaction surveys and workplace quality/employee satisfaction surveys to assist agency managers with identifying areas for performance improvement. Participating agencies: State Road and Tolls Authority, Office of Child Support Services.
- Agency-level application of workplace quality/employee satisfaction surveys to assist agency managers with identifying areas for performance improvement. Participating agencies: Department of Juvenile Justice, Department of Revenue, Department of Corrections.
- Individual interviews with 35 State of Georgia administrators to gather recommendations for sustaining customer service as a priority within state government.

Research projects for the Georgia Governor’s Office of Customer Service. Deon Locklin, Principal Investigator. (2009-2010, $113,905) Tasks included:

- Investigation of the nature and scope of state employees’ use of web-based customer service tools and materials produced by the Governor’s Office of Customer Service as part of a 20-month initiative.
- Agency-level application of workplace quality/employee satisfaction surveys to assist agency managers with identifying areas for performance improvement. Participating agencies: Department of Juvenile Justice, Department of Revenue, Department of Corrections, Georgia Forestry Commission, Georgia Perimeter College, Governor’s Office of Customer Service, State Accounting Office.

The W.J. Usery Workplace Research Group (UWRG) includes scholars at the Andrew Young School with research interests bearing on the workplace, labor markets, education, health, and related areas. Research papers by UWRG faculty are available through the Usery Workplace Research Paper Series. In addition to the group’s research, related activities include the annual W.J. Usery Distinguished Lecture Series, seminar speakers, and an occasional research conference. UWRG members are involved in a wide range of professional activities. Barry Hirsch is the W.J. Usery Chair of the American Workplace and coordinates the Usery Workplace Research Group.

Highlights

W.J. Usery Distinguished Lecture and Coordinating Events

In 2005, W.J. Usery and the Andrew Young School of Policy Studies inaugurated a lecture series on issues in the American Workplace. The first lecture featured Richard B. Freeman, Ascherman Chair of Economics at Harvard University. The fifth and latest lecture in this series took place in March 2009. Katharine Abraham (University of Maryland) presented “What We Don’t Know Could Hurt Us: Some Reflections on the Measurement of Economic Activity,” March 11-12, 2009 (available at Georgia State's iTunesU channel). Along with the lecture, the UWRG hosted a luncheon with Katharine Abraham to facilitate a discussion of labor issues and policy. Graduate students and faculty were invited to an informal and open Q&A during a breakfast “Coffee & Conversation” with Dr. Abraham. Janet Johnson coordinates the Usery Lecture.

W.J. Usery Workplace Conference on Labor Market Issues and Policy

Some of the most critical issues facing the American workplace were discussed by top labor economists at the W.J. Usery Workplace Conference at the Andrew Young School of Policy Studies, held April 16-17. Among the topics addressed were pensions and savings, healthcare costs and the workplace, employment trends among African-Americans, educational equity and public school teachers, job security, and lessons from the Great Depression and New Deal.

The Conference, organized by Barry Hirsch, began with a dinner Thursday night at the Commerce Club, where attendees were welcomed by Robert Moore, AYSPS Interim Dean, and W.J. “Bill” Usery, Distinguished Executive Fellow in Labor Policy at the Andrew Young School, in whose honor the event was named. Henry Farber (Princeton) gave the keynote address, “Long-term Employment and Job Security,” which highlighted changes over time in U.S. job loss and job tenure, with evidence of declining job attachment concentrated among men in the private sector.

Friday’s open forum in the AYSPS 7th floor conference room featured five sessions, each of which included a presentation by an invited expert on the topic, commentary by a Georgia State scholar, and audience discussion. Friday’s session concluded with a Labor Policy Roundtable that engaged speakers and the audience in a lively exchange of ideas on key conference themes. Bill Usery, former U.S. Secretary of Labor, whose long career in both public service and private industry has helped enhance the well-being of workers, provided some perspective on the current state of the American workplace, and encouraged those who are seeking solutions to today’s major problems.
The conference is available for viewing on iTunesU in the AYSPS section.

Staff Activities
Research Support gave assistance and support to faculty and students in their research needs in literature and finding data. Gardner Neely manages the Andrew Young School of Policy Studies Research Support office.

Located on the Ground Floor of the AYS building, Research Support provided enhanced research services to graduate students and faculty. In the past year, about 1,000 publications and conference announcements were circulated to faculty and graduate research assistants, with many recent journals and reports kept for reference.

Research Support collects, catalogs and makes available relevant literature and electronic resources for curriculum and research projects. Support staff worked with college faculty and their research assistants to help them access and interpret ever-changing information databases. The unit provided access to websites, journals and data sets in such areas as public finance, economics, nonprofit studies, domestic and international policy studies, with an emphasis on taxation and revenue issues.

Faculty who served on the advisory committee in 2009 were Bruce Kaufman, Neven Valev and Dennis Young.

Nonprofit Studies Program

Neely worked with Nonprofit Studies Program Director Dennis Young, PMAP Chairman Harvey Newman and associated faculty to locate and provide literature and electronic resources on nonprofits. These resources helped the Nonprofit Studies Program’s research activities, including topics on managing and funding nonprofit agencies and organizations. A selection of journals, conferences, and lectures was featured in the Research Support area, including the Aspen Idea, The Nonprofit Times, Nonprofit Quarterly, the Chronicle of Philanthropy, Nonprofit and Voluntary Sector Quarterly, and Giving USA annual.

Selected books added in 2009:

- Social Enterprise: A Global Comparison, edited by Janelle A. Kerlin
- India’s and China’s Recent Experience with Reform and Growth, edited by Wanda Tseng and David Cowen
- Decentralization Policies in Asian Development, edited by Shinichi Ichimura and Roy Bahl
- Does Atlas Shrug?: the Economic Consequences of Taxing the Rich, edited by Joel Slemrod
- SuperFreakonomics: Global Cooling, Patriotic Prostitutes, and Why Suicide Bombers Should Buy Life Insurance, by Steven D. Levitt and Stephen J. Dubner

We cataloged additional titles on economics, philosophy, and policy that were given to the Andrew Young School by the family of Georgia Economist Dr. Hank Thomassen, as a memorial to the long-serving economist to the governor. Many of these were included in our collection in his honor.
RESEARCH SUPPORT OFFICE RESOURCES

The office maintained an online catalog of resources, listing subscriptions, government documents, books, CDs and data sets available for use by AYS researchers. The catalog is accessible through the Andrew Young School website, with journal holdings and data sets listed. In 2009, new titles, data CDs, and print annuals were added, including the following:

- World Bank World Development Indicators
- IMF International Financial Statistics
- IMF Government Finance Statistics
- Direction Of Trade Statistics
- World Economic and Financial Surveys
- European Tax Handbook 2009

GIFT JOURNALS

UNIVERSITY OUTREACH

Research Support coordinated with Karen MacDonald, Joel Glogowski and other University “Subject Librarians” in orienting new faculty and graduate students to the relevant literature in policy studies, economics and public administration. The University Library has research guides written and posted online for subjects including Public Management and Economics. We also worked with La Loria Konata, the coordinator of the Learning Commons on the second floor of the GSU University Library. Research Support also worked with both Library and AYS staff to update our databases and coordinate resource sharing. Relevant Library improvements included completing the renovation of the University Library, as well as electronic archiving of faculty publications, both for preservation and for more complete access to this research via web searches by colleagues.
Research Support worked with the College of Business on access to such business databases as WRDS, as requested.

Ulearn and Google Documents were used to host frequently requested materials and training materials for staff. Neely was trained by Jason Puckett and Joel Glogowski on bibliographic information systems. We used new media tools to present literature orientation on other public access software. EndNote, from ISI, is the bibliographic citation manager required for all dissertations. We trained staff to provide assistance with this citation tracking tool, and interface with library databases, such as ABI Inform, LexisNexis, EbscoHost, EconLit, PAIS, and many others.

Research Support’s website features frequently used international tax literature links, pertinent publishers, suppliers and data centers, and links to the University Library’s menu. Additionally, tables of contents of scholarly journals that the University Library licensed were posted. Research Support continued to build its collection of faculty publications primarily through gift copies of monographs. Excess gift reports, books, and journals have been shared with students.

Advancement
The Board of Advisors is an important part of the Andrew Young School. Members provide ideas and suggestions, serve as a sounding board of our ideas, and represent us in the community.

Our board members are cheerleaders, advise on our program development and even participate in it, support our important events, and help us raise funds. There is one board meeting a year, in the fall; from time to time, special called meetings are held.

We ask each board member to find an area of particular interest in the School, such as one of our centers, programs or departments. We want them to learn about that program in some depth, get involved with what the program does, and then help us find intellectual and practitioner support as well as core funding for that program. This is a long-term activity—it takes time to develop programs and to raise funds. Board members provide critical perspective, and their advice and leadership are very important to us.

The mission of Andrew Young School of Policy Studies’ public relations is to promote a favorable environment for student and faculty recruitment, private giving and public funding by raising awareness of the college and its accomplishments among essential constituencies. Our public relations efforts use planned and purposeful communication ideas, strategies and tactics. Avani Raval and Jennifer Giarratano coordinate public relations, publications and events.

Highlights

The AYSPS audience is widespread. It includes potential students, alumni, and parents; potential faculty and research associates; members of the State Legislature; peer researchers; government, nonprofit and business leaders in the Atlanta, regional, national, and global arenas; the media; the community at large; and decision makers at national and international development agencies such as USAID, The World Bank, and IMF, as well as the leaders in foreign governments with whom the AYSPS works.

The Andrew Young School mission – to “inform the debate” on local, state, national and global policy – hinges on its research being widely known. AYSPS public relations efforts strive to reach its many audiences via its media relations, event management, and publications efforts.

Online Seminars on iTunesU

Within the past few years, the Andrew Young School has utilized the new wave of communications by taping its seminars, lectures, and conferences and posting them online as free podcasts via iTunesU. The School’s podcasts are located in the Georgia State University section of iTunesU. This fantastic outlet furthers the School’s and University’s missions by publicizing research and lectures that benefit the public, from trauma care conferences to visits by world leaders.Anyone can access these lectures, and they offer valuable information and insight to the community.

Media Relations

The Andrew Young School was often cited in 2009, including media hits in newspapers, online news sources, blogs, radio shows, and television news. In addition, AYS faculty members often write articles and op-eds for newspapers and magazines around the world. Locally, faculty were quoted in (or their research was cited in) news sources such as: The Atlanta Journal-Constitution, Atlanta Business Chronicle, Creative Loafing, Marietta Daily Journal, Athens Banner-Herald, Griffin Daily News, The Augusta Chronicle, Coastal Courier, Dawson Times, Southern Voice, Georgia Public Broadcasting, WG AU radio—Athens, WGST 640 AM “The Morning Drive” show, WABE-FM Public Radio, WSB-TV, and WXIA-TV 11 Alive News. Faculty were also sought for their opinions and expertise in national news stories featured in National Public Radio, Associated Press, Bloomberg News, MSNBC, Huffington Post, The Christian Science Monitor, Macroblog, USA Today, The New York Times, and Harper’s Magazine. Several international newspapers and websites utilized AYS faculty expertise, including The Australian, science journal Nature, Vedomosti, CIO Australia, CNN Español, and Capital.

The weekly Atlanta Business Chronicle and the hometown daily newspaper Atlanta Journal-Constitution, whose influence drives much of Metro Atlanta and North Georgia’s media decisions, are important media outlets for the School, and often include expertise from the Andrew Young School. Topics range widely. Samples include: tax policy, health policy, elections, charter schools, the economics of sports, obesity, environmental economics, and disaster preparation and response. See the Media Hits section for a list of media hits from 2009.

Georgia State University’s Department of University Relations assists in Andrew Young School media relations. A designated public relations specialist works with the School, writing and distributing press releases on college research, programs and events and proactively pitching experts who can discuss newsworthy topics. Reporters from local and national media outlets often contact University Relations seeking commentary for their news stories, and the department matches them with faculty members in the Andrew Young School who have the appropriate expertise. Many of the school’s professors are frequently sought for interviews on a wide variety of subjects. Media hits in the Atlanta Journal-Constitution and other news sources are tracked and distributed to the School via the Dean’s weekly E-News publication.

Publications

The Briefing. A key component of the school’s visibility efforts is The Briefing, the Andrew Young School’s newsletter showcasing research, teaching and outreach by the School’s faculty, students, alumni and friends. The Briefing is sent three times a year to 13,000 constituents (4,800 alumni and 8,200 friends, about half of whom are colleagues, deans and department heads, and many of whom are government officials), and is featured on the School website. Feedback is impressive regarding the content and presentation of the newsletter, as well as the sheer magnitude of activity that the School consistently achieves. Jennifer Giarratano continues to write The Briefing, bringing clarity to the issues and setting stories in context with what is happening in the world. The publication’s annual highlight is the Research Issue.

Annual Report. Each year the School conducts a thorough accounting of what it has done, producing an approximately 200-page report. Hardcopies of the report are distributed to select peers and are available for distribution throughout the year, and announcement cards of the annual report’s availability on the Web are sent to 12,000 alumni and friends of the school. Bonnie Naugle continues to coordinate this effort.

Academic Brochures. Academic brochures are available for each of the Andrew Young School programs. In addition to the brochures, Wanda Cooley and members of the PMAP and Economics departments distribute flyers for undergraduates as a way to encourage majoring in current and new AYSPS programs.

Website. The Andrew Young School is using the University content management system, ensuring all centers that choose to participate have an easily-managed website. The website is continually being updated and upgraded to offer a wide array of current information about the School. “Expert pages” are maintained for AYSPS faculty and research associates, including contact information, vitae, and photos. Story ideas, news releases, and the online experts guide provide assistance for the news media. An active calendar site and informational intranet area prove useful for faculty and staff. Information on academic programs, courses and syllabi are popular with current and prospective students, as well as those that advise them. Availability of working papers online continues to grow.

Dean’s E-News. The Dean’s E-News was published weekly in 2009, serving as a vehicle for sharing achievements within the School and for identifying news to be distributed to external audiences. Publications Specialist Gayon McFarquar-Johnson produces the newsletter, which is archived on the AYSPS intranet.

Georgia State Magazine and The Villager. The Georgia State University Office of University Relations promotes the Andrew Young School along with other colleges on campus through its publications, including Georgia State Magazine, a 40-page glossy magazine published quarterly for alumni, donors, legislators and the university community (circulation: 110,000), and The Villager, the university’s official faculty/staff newspaper, distributed monthly to all employees (circulation: 3,500).

Advertising. The Andrew Young School advertises its programs in relevant publications, both internal and external. PowerPoint templates with the AYSPS identity are offered to researchers; publications are in adherence to the University’s identity guide. Georgia State University’s professional photographers are often used. The School’s Social Science Research Network (SSRN) working paper series is widely distributed through SSRN networks, eLibrary, and electronic journals. The research centers produce a wide array of publications, including working paper series, fiscal research notes, child policy brochures, and conference brochures.

Events

The Andrew Young School is a vibrant place, with a busy calendar of events. Each of the academic departments and centers within the School has a wide array of research and outreach initiatives, with a corresponding variety of events. The Dean’s office coordinates events within the college to ensure minimum overlap and maximum attendance per event. Avani Raval oversees scheduling of rooms, coordination with University photographers and audio/video production crews, catering, and event promotion for AYSPS events.

Event highlights in 2009 included:

Honors Day. Honors Day is an annual, special day in the life of the college. Exemplary students are recognized in a formal reception, dinner and awards ceremony. See the “Student Awards, Honors and Scholarships” section of this report for further information.

“A Conversation on Leadership.” The Andrew Young School of Policy Studies and Georgia State University hosted “a conversation in Leadership” with icon Ambassador Andrew Young, Bill George (author of the Best-Selling book 7 Lessons for Leading in Crisis and professor of management practice at Harvard Business School) and John Hope Bryant (Vice Chair of the U.S. President’s Advisory Council on Financial Literacy and the Founder, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Operation HOPE, Inc.) on Friday, October 16, 2009. The lecture addressed leadership after a global crisis and was moderated by Roy Bahl, Founding Dean of the Andrew Young School and Regents Professor of Economics. The discussion also covered John Hope Bryant’s book Love Leadership: The New Way to Lead in a Fear-Based World. A breakfast reception and book signing capped off the event.

“Owning the Large Lecture.” The Andrew Young School of Policy Studies and Georgia State University welcomed Dirk Mateer as the AYS 2009 Distinguished Seminar Speaker on October 23. Mateer is an award-winning instructor, renowned for his teaching methods. Most notably, he has been featured in the “Great Teachers in Economics” series put out by the Stavros Economic Education Center. He was also the inaugural winner of the Economic Communicator Contest sponsored by the Association of Private Enterprise Education. At Penn State, he has received special recognition as an influential first-year instructor, served on the faculty homecoming court, been recognized by the Department of Economics for outstanding teaching in four separate courses, earned the College of Liberal Arts award for outstanding teaching, and named Penn State’s top teacher by the Panhellenic-Inter Fraternity Council. Mateer’s first lecture was on “Owning the Large Lecture” and focused on engaging the large lecture audiences typically found in principles courses. He also offered a second lecture on “T-Mobiling Your Class,” which focused on the use of technology and innovative teaching methods in Economics.

Coordination between the AYS and other units on campus via monthly PR Council and PR Executive Roundtable meetings, to review events underway as well as major publications and media initiatives, was hosted by the Office of University Relations. AYS also works in conjunction with such offices as the Office of Development, routinely providing materials and assisting these offices in their work for the AYS, and working groups such as the College Webmasters Group.

Academic Department and Research Center Seminar Series. The academic departments and research centers of the Andrew Young School keep their calendars full of activities that benefit both the School and the broader AYSPS audience.

Seminar speakers came from such institutions as Columbia University Teachers College, Center for Leadership in Disability at Georgia State University, University of British Columbia, University of California Santa Barbara, Syracuse University, Federal Reserve Board of Governors, Harvard School of Public Health, Auburn University, University of Florida, University of Georgia, Florida State University, Iowa State University, University of Magdeburg, University of Texas at Dallas, Université Lumière Lyon 2, University of Chicago, Ohio State University, University of South Carolina, University of Arizona, IZA - Institute for the Study of Labor, University of Kiel, Appalachian State University, University of Michigan, International Food Policy Research Institute, University of Central Florida, George Mason University, Kennesaw State University, Upjohn Institute, Tilburg University, Indiana University, and Baylor University.
Journalists from dozens of local, regional, national and international publications and broadcast outlets call on the Andrew Young School’s faculty experts each week for information and commentary on breaking news stories and features. In 2009, researchers and data from the Andrew Young School were featured in over 150 articles. The college encourages its faculty – as employees of a taxpayer-funded research university – to make themselves and their work available to the public through these news outlets. The list below represents a sampling of the year’s major media hits.
